NEW OPTIMISM FOR NEBRASKA CROPS

Roosevelt Outlines Vast Plan To Improve Human Welfare

EXPERTS SEE GOOD CHANCE FOR CORN NOW

General Rains Gladden East and Central Counties — Lincoln Gets .64 of Inch in Thundershower—Moisture Fails to Impede Soaring Temperatures.

Nebraska's crop outlook was called "more encouraging" Friday by three agricultural experts in Lincoln, following the week's rains all over the state. The corn picture was painted with bright colors for the first time this summer.

A E Anderson, state and federal agricultural statistician, said 'the drouth is apparently bent, although not yet broken. Rain has fallen for several days, particularly in the northeast, and rain is what helps to combat drouth"

W. H Brokaw, head of the agricultural college extension service, saw the situation as "promising," as did P M Stewart, extension agent

All three men said wheat and oats were beyond help, although some of the late wheat might be benefited by the rains "The trouble is," Mr Brokaw said 'that there is not much wheat for good rains to help"

Anderson declared that every place which has had as much as half an inch of precipitation in the last few days probably has enough moisture to start the corn crop but up to three or four inches of rain is needed every month.

The whole picture for the corn crop seemed to be bright, although all three men were emphatic in their statements that more rain must fall if the advantage is to be held "These rains," Brokaw said, "will carry the corn over some of the worst days"

Pastures Improved.

The pastures, Stewart and Brokaw pointed out, would green up now, if more good rains were received "They have a good start," Stewart said, "and with three or four more good rains they will be in excellent shape"

The outlook for the second cutting of alfalfa is not so bright, they indicated. The rains of recent days have benefited the second crop, but much more moisture must come before a good yield is assured The first crop was almost a failure

L A. White, rural rehabilitation director, announced enough seed for forage crops has been purchased to meet the needs in secondary drouth counties where federal funds can be used for seed and feed He declined to state the amount of the purchases, fearing an affect on the market Feed purchases, he said, still are on the basis of small purchases for emergency cases.

White and federal relief officials conferred on plans for carrying on the drouth relief program and White said he hoped by Saturday to be able to announce which counties will be designated for cash work relief and which of the 69 drouth approved counties will be allotted for distribution directly to farmers of seed and feed.

Soaking rains fell over most of eastern and central Nebraska Thursday night and Friday morning, but Mother Nature took back her promise of cooler weather as the mercury zoomed up to 94 degrees in Lincoln at 12:30 o'clock.

Accompanied by deafening thunder and spectacular lightning flashes, 64 of an inch of rain fell in Lincoln at about 1 o'clock Friday morning Reports indicated the rain was general all over the eastern section of the state

Heavy clouds were converging on Lincoln at 2 30 o'clock Friday afternoon from three directions and rumbling thunder was heard at Havelock and Waverly

Temperatures, after the mercury had crawled to 100 Thursday to establish the hottest June 7 on record were forced down temporarily by the cooling rain

Month's Total .79 Inch.

The rain began briskly at shortly before 1 o clock, but slackened after a few moments to a mere drizzle A few moments later thunder crashed and the rain pelted down for about an hour The 64 of an inch was more rain than was received all during the month of May. Weather bureau officials said the total for the month of June to date was .79 of an inch

The rain was general throughout the county Waverly got .75, Raymond, 50, Sprague, .25, and Greenwood, .75 Hickman, Panama and Bennet reported showers

A Lincoln man who owns land in Boone county received word that that vicinity had received a good rain during the night, its first in several weeks

Although the skies in Lincoln were clear many points in the state were still receiving rain Nebraska City reported that it was raining there at 8 30 o clock and Laurel reported it was raining hard there during the morning. Beatrice and Tecumseh had light showers during the morning the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company said Ashland had about three-quarters of an inch

OBERLIES FOR TAX MORATORIUM

Urges Aid For Property Owners Delinquent For Two Years.

L. C. Oberlies, head of the city finance department, suggested to the city council Friday that a year's moratorium be declared on real estate taxes that are delinquent more than two years. "Unless something of the kind is done," he declared, "hundreds of properties will go to a scavenger sale, and the owners may never have an opportunity to redeem them"

If a moratorium were declared, Mr. Oberlies said, it is likely property owners would make more of an effort to pay their current taxes.

Before the proposal will be considered by his colleagues, Mr Oberlies was told, he must obtain an opinion from the city attorney on the legality of the plan

San Salvador Is Hit by Hurricane; Eight Are Killed

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—Eight lives were lost, 500 persons were made homeless and damage estimated at $1,500,000 done by a hurricane that swept San Salvador yesterday and last night, Pan-American Airways reported today

Martial law was declared today as a result of the complete collapse of communication facilities, light and power lines and railroad travel

The reports wirelessed to Pan-American Airways via its airport in Salvador which escaped damage, said many large buildings in the capital were partially demolished

Homes in the residential district of Iiopango and Foyopango were washed away by heavy rains that fell during the storm, the report said

The storm struck Salvador at 1 p m, yesterday at which time 50-mile an hour winds were reported High winds continued throughout the night, accompanied by torrential rains.

FACTORY FIRE LOSS FIXED AT ABOUT $19,500

Old Incubator Building Total Loss; No Plans For Rebuilding.

Spectacular flames, aided by a strong, sweltering south wind, swept through the old Queen Incubator Co. factory at Fourteenth and X streets, Thursday afternoon, completely demolishing one large storage building, damaging two others and rolling up an estimated loss of $19 500.

Origin of the fire was not determined and Fire Chief Louis Hansen said most of the theories concerning the cause were guesses. Three of these "guesses," however, seemed plausible Spontaneous combustion, the inevitable smoking tramp, and sparks from locomotives.

Wind Saves Tanks.

The flames which leaped more than 50 feet high, endangered six Sinclair storage tanks filled with 60,000 gallons of gasoline Fire Chief Hansen and State Fire Marshal Butcher said a north wind would have been disastrous

The Northwestern Iron and Metal company, which utilized the main factory building as a storage house for rags and papers, suffered a loss of approximately $12.000, according to Dan Hill, president of the company. Of this amount, 60 per cent is covered by insurance, he said.

Mr Hill said his company used the old factory as a place to store pulp materials until the market offered favorable prices There were 1 200 tons of baled rags and papers stored in the building and in a box car.

Estimates Reduced.

First estimates of the building loss were placed near $10,000 but Friday morning this was reduced to approximately $7,500. Otto Schlaebitz of the First Trust company, who has been administering the business affairs of bondholders in the defunct Queen Incubator company, stated the main factory building was assessed at $5,000. He said the building will not be replaced.

R W. McGinnis, North Western agent here, gave an unofficial estimate of damage to the railroad's interest as about $2,500. He said rebuilding is doubtful

About forty firemen still worked on the smoking ruins Friday and Fire Chief Hansen said the debris probably would smoulder for days He said he would instruct the owners of the merchandise to move the charred bales as soon as possible.

Creditors of the Bank of Douglas are getting another 5 per cent on their accounts which amounts to $5 082 This money was realized from disposition of assets in the regular way The Douglas bank has returned 70 per cent in all, or $85,145, to its patrons thus far.

RECEIVERS ARE COURT OFFICERS

Judge Rules In Donovan Case Governor No Right To Remove.

On the ground that insurance company receivers are officers appointed by the court and that the governor has no authority to order the dismissal of employes under them except for cause, District Judge E B Chappell overruled a demurrer filed by Sterling Mutz, attorney for State Insurance Commissioner Herman as receiver for the National Old Line Life Insurance company in the case brought by Effie Pruitt of Omaha against that company.

The plaintiff in her petition asked that M L. Donovan, Omaha lawyer appointed by Herman as attorney in the National Old Line Life Insurance company's receivership and later removed, be reinstated Donovan representing Plaintiff Pruitt at a hearing on the demurrer last week had asserted that he was removed on Governor Bryan's orders and that Herdman simply wrote him that 'the pressure of Lincoln lawyers has been too great to withstand"

Judge Chappell cited the Supreme court's opinion in regard to the state banking department wherein it was held that a judge has a right to order the appointment of a receiver other than the banking department because the receiver is an officer of the court.

CONKLIN STICKS TO STORY UNDER SEVERE GRILLING

Woman Employe Claims Reproof To Bryan On Missing Book.

ABSENT OFFICIALS CAUSE ARGUMENT

Two Janitors Testify They Contributed Voluntarily.

State Land Commissioner Harry P Conklin's trial moved from one high point to another in District court Friday, beginning with County Attorney Max G. Towle's slashing cross-examination of Conklin and closing with a recital by a woman employe in the land commissioner's office of a reproof she said she administered to Governor Bryan.

Under Towle's sharp attack, Conklin again denied ever having told capitol janitors their salaries would be for less than their warrants. He repeated his claim that the idea of campaign fund contributions originated among the janitors. He declared he never knew what contributions were made or by whom

Miss Gosnell Asked Apology.

The story of the reproof handed Governor Bryan came from Miss Inez Gosnell, bookkeeper in Conklin's office. She testified she told Bryan he "would have to take back" a statement which she said had been credited to him, implicating her in the removal of a book from Conklin's office the night before the land commissioner's arrest On cross-examination, Miss Gosnell admitted to County Attorney Towle that she resigned as clerk of the district court in Merrick county in 1932 in connection with a shortage of funds in her office

Another high point of the day's session came with an interchange of words between the opposing attorneys after Defense Attorney Max V Beghtol told Judge Frost he has subpoenas issued for the appearance in court of State Director of Agriculture Dwight Felton, State Game Warden Frank B O'Connell, and L. T. Hare, agriculture department employe, but that the sheriff had been unable to find them.

The defense called two present janitors at the capitol, Roy Merrill, and Don Lindemann, to testify their contributions to Conklin's campaign fund were made voluntarily and that they had never been threatened with the loss of their jobs for failure to contribute. Mrs. Ethel Richardson, stenographer in Conklin's office, testified she prepared from office files records showing total expenditures for janitors under Conklin's administration was $36 889 in 1933 as compared to $40.898 under Dan Swanson in 1931.

SETTLEMENT OF STEEL DISPUTE BELIEVED NEAR

Johnson Confers With Industry Chiefs, Then Union Labor Group.

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP)—Negotiations for an agreement to prevent the threatened steel strike were postponed today until tomorrow afternoon, with every indication that government efforts for settlement were proceeding satisfactorily

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP)—There were indications at the NRA this afternoon that an agreement on a basis for settlement of the threatened steel strike was near

Apparently, it depended on the results of a conference under way between steel union leaders Hugh S Johnson, the NRA administrtor Secretary Perkins and Senator Wagner, chairman of the national labor board

Meanwhile, Senator Wagner, chairman of the national labor board, predicted to newspapermen that a steel strike would be averted.

Word of the possible imminent settlement came from Hugh S Johnson's office while he awaited arrival of a five-man committee of union leaders and shortly after he had concluded a discussion a subcommittee of steel executives headed by Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel

Johnson Offers New Plan.

This subcommittee, given a new proposition by the administrator had gone to confer with a larger group of steel men and Johnson was awaiting a reply from them.

Grace was accompanied to Johnson's office by W A Irvin, of the U. S Steel corporation, and L. E. Block, president of Inland Steel.

President Roosevelt, meantime, conferred with Secretary Perkins, but nothing was made known concerning the meeting

Wagner, who has had several conferences recently on the controversy emphasized he was only giving his opinion.

Meets With Union Group.

He added the trouble could certainly be avoided if the representatives of both sides agreed to sit down at the conference table and talk things over.

Shortly after the committee of union men entered Johnson's office Secretary Perkins joined them

Johnson's hope to take off for Chicago by 2 p m., was not realized, but an army plane at Bolling field was kept warm waiting for him

Senator Wagner joined the conference immediately after Secretary Perkins

Divorce Denied To Invalid Lincoln Woman Who Sued At Mate's Request; Judge Says 'Wish' Doesn't Govern

OMAHA, June 8 — (AP) — District Judge Rhoades, after expressing belief that it is a man's duty to remain with his wife when she is rendered an invalid and a woman's duty to remain by him through adverse luck, today denied a divorce to Mrs Ida M Elliott 4707 Hillside avenue Lincoln from Paul L. Elliott, now living in Des Moines

Twenty-three years ago Mrs Elliott was paralyzed below the waist and until seven years ago was bedfast She appeared in court today on crutches.

"Why do you want a divorce?" Judge Rhoades asked

"Because he wished it" Mrs Elliott replied. The husband filed the original petition for divorce, but by agreement Mrs. Elliott filed a cross petition

"His wish doesn't govern here," Judge Rhoades said

Testimony brought out that Elliott had taken good care of his wife until seven years ago when he came to Omaha to work leaving her at Lincoln where she lives with her mother and her 22-year-old son Kenneth

Elliott's attorney disclosed that Elliott had spent all his money and sold a 160-acre farm to pay hospital bills for his wife He said Elliott is now unable to support her because his work is irregular

Judge Rhoades ruled there was no evidence of abandonment or non-support, and hence no cause of action.

TOMMY CARROLL, DILLINGER'S PAL, SHOT TO DEATH

Quick Shooting Iowa Detectives Pump Five Bullets into Outlaw.

Jean Crompton, Girl Companion, Being Held By Waterloo Police.

WATERLOO, Ia., June 8—(AP)—Jean Delaney Crompton, 21-year-old sweetheart of Tommy Carroll, was "not really married" to the Dillinger gang machine gunner killed here yesterday, she admitted to officers today

But the wedding ring she wore was given by Carroll and she considered they were married she asserted Officers, meanwhile, prepared to send Carroll's body to his widow, Viola Carroll, in St. Paul.

Arrested when Carroll was shot down by two detectives as he resisted arrest, the girl was questioned at length by federal, state and local officers late last night and again today

She continued to insist that she knew nothing of the whereabouts of John Dillinger or of another couple who was the object of a search last night as Carroll died in a hospital from his five wounds

Second Couple Sought.

The second couple, officers learned, possibly caught a ride from a passing motorist and were headed east

The Crompton girl said she is married to a Chicago mechanic by the name of Crompton, refusing to give his first name.

Officers allowed her to view Carroll's body at the morgue last night The visit lasted about two minutes, she sobbed but made no demonstration

Arrangements were going forward today to take her to the reformatory at Alderson, W. Va., to which she and two other women had been sentenced on pleas of guilty to harboring Dillinger and his gang at a resort near Mercer Wis.

The sentence had been suspended and she had been admitted to pro-

Cruickshank Low Man In U. S. Open

Veteran From Richmond Setting the Pace In Golf Classic.

MERION CRICKET CLUB Philadelphia, Pa., June 8—(AP)—Withstanding fresh challenges, Bobby Cruickshank, 49 year old Scotch professional from Richmond Va enjoyed a three-stroke lead over his nearest pursuer, Gene Sarazen of New York at the halfway stage of the United States open golf championships second 18-hole round

Cruickshank topped the field with a brace of 71's for 142, shaking off a number of previous rivals, while Sarazen added a 72 to his previous 73 for a 36-hole aggregate of 145.

Paul Runyan of White Plains, N Y., the pre-tournament favorite who was nominated to take Merion apart, suffered an inexplainable collapse in his short game, took a 78 in company with Sarazen and trailed Cruickshank by 10 strokes with a total of 152 for the two days. Today's disastrous round virtually put Runyan out of the title picture.

"Rod" Bliss Still In Running.

Charles Lacey of New York, who was tied with Cruickshank at 71 yesterday, blew himself to a 78 and drifted back with a total of 149.

Bunched together, five shots behind the pace-setter with totals of 147, were Horton Smith of Chicago, Leo Diegel of Philadelphia and Bill Burke of Cleveland. Diegel and Burke had 71s today.

Johnny Goodman of Omaha the defending champion, who had a first round 76, and Wiffy Cox of Brooklyn, third of the trio of first round leaders, started their pursuit of Cruickshank soon after luncheon.

Meanwhile, young Rodney Bliss jr., Omaha amateur and rival of Goodman, kept himself in the spotlight with a sensational 35, one under par, for the first nine. Bliss had a 74 yesterday, for the best amateur score, and was the "dark horse" threat of the simon-pure brigade, pending the day's final returns.

Bliss' Total Is 147.

Bliss, slipping on two of the last three holes after having a great chance to threaten Cruickshank's margin of leadership, took 38 for the last nine for a total of 73 and a 36-hole aggregate of 147 The former Cornell golf captain made few mistakes, on the whole, and continued to remain the sensation of the amateur combatants

Ky Laffoon of Colorado ran into several minor difficulties on the back nine and took a 37, for a 73 on his second round and 149 for the 36 holes. He sank a 20 foot putt on the 12th for a birdie 3 but wasted a stroke getting out of the rough for a five on the 13th

Jimmy Hines, the big belter from Timber Point L I caught up with par for the first 70 of the tournament He missed a five foot putt on the last green for a par-busting 69 Even so he was 10 strokes improved over his first round 80 and totaled 150

The defending champion, Johnny Goodman started to fade from the picture with a 40 for the outgoing nine This was four over par and at that stage he was nine shots behind Cruickshank.

SECURITY OF PEOPLE IS AIM OF PRESIDENT

Message to Congress Lists Roosevelt's Housing, Population Distribution and Social Insurance Policies to Promote Well Being of People—Wants Action Next Session.

The text of President Roosevelt's message on social legislation appears on Page Six of this paper.

WASHINGTON, June 8 — (AP) — President Roosevelt told congress today that he is preparing a vast plan of social insurance for the security "of the citizen and his family."

This with another national plan for land and water resources, will be laid before congress next winter.

In his longest message to the national legislature, the chief executive said

"Among our objectives I place the security of the men, women and children of the nation first"

"People," he said 'want decent homes to live in, they want to locate them where they can engage in productive work, and they want some safeguard against misfortunes which cannot be wholly eliminated in this man-made world of ours."

Regarding homes he said the government has already appropriated millions for housing, and in a housing bill now before the legislators can "stimulate the lending of money' to modernize homes and build new ones

Of the "problem of readjustment of population," he said "hundreds of thousands of families live where there is no reasonable prospect of a living in the years to come"

Working on Another Plan.

"When the next congress convenes," he declared, "I hope to be able to present to it a carefully considered national plan, covering the development and human use of our national resources of land and water over a long period of years."

It involves abandoning millions of acres for agricultural use and replacing them with better land.

The president disclosed he has begun actuarial studies looking to a unified system of social insurance, including unemployment and old age.

"I believe," he said, "there should be a maximum of co-operation between states and the federal government I believe that the funds necessary to provide this insurance should be raised by contribution rather than by an increase in general taxation"

The states he said "should meet at least a large part of the management cost" leaving the federal

DELUGE OF RAIN FALLS IN PARTS OF DROUTH AREA

Storm Does as Much Damage as Heat in Iowa and Dakota Sections.

(By the Associated Press).

Wind storm and flood brought new afflictions Friday to drouth-sick northwestern prairies that were voicing thanks for freshening, albeit scattered rains

In some parts of South Dakota and Iowa torrential rains and winds did almost as much damage to crops as the withering sun.

At Yankton, S D., a man was killed, a boy fatally injured, several others inflicted with minor injuries, and property damaged when wind and rain descended with violence.

In some sections trees were uprooted, windmills and buildings toppled, and a deluge of rain washed away top soil and left water standing in fields.

Flood At Sioux City.

At Sioux City, the Floyd river was over its banks and water covered a mile wide area in the railroad district Scores of families were leaving homes as the water advanced.

As Rogers Sees It

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 8—Both sides in the steel seem anxious to strike. Well if they would only strike just each other it wouldn't be so bad. Don't it look like there ought to be some civilized way of finding out what the employe and employer owed to each other? The latest papers say that "it's up to the president now" Is there anything difficult under the sun that's not put up to that man? He will eventually be asked to decide if the five little babies born in Canada must go to the world's fair, in Chicago, or not.

No Good Strike News

New Hat for Women

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

James Keeley, of Chicago, a good newspaper man, died yesterday and will be buried tomorrow. He was an able, hard-working newspaperman, who understood the value of real news, a man of character, energy and courage.

No good news about the proposed steel strike. Mike Tighe president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, goes to Washington today to discuss the strike with General Johnson. Big companies say they will not recognize unions, or put their plants under union control. Union men say 350,000 men will go out if the union is not recognized. News headlines say "The Strike Is Up to the President." They do not say how he can compel 350,000 men to continue working or compel owners of steel works to recognize unions and submit to union rule.

The president yesterday was busy on a message to Congress, expected to outline his hopes for "social legislation" unemployment insurance, conservation and use of the national resources, etc. The president will probably ask congress for five hundred and twenty-five millions that he needs to relieve sufferers from the drouth, and urge again passage of the Wagner labor board bill, necessary in dealing with the threatened steel strike.

It is suggested that if the strike occurs the president will keep congress in session "to enact legislation to deal with it."

It would be better for the country to deal with an important, dangerous strike through congress rather than by the mere sending of troops, with orders to shoot. Shooting is easily started, not always easily stopped.

Women will want to know that there is a new kind of hat, brought to this country by Countess Gradenigo, wife of the Italian consul at Cleveland. She wore it off the boat yesterday, a hat in the "Watteau style," looking like a shallow soup plate, made of straw, tilted over the right eye, fastened on by a velvet band worn around the head, a bow ribbon at the back of the hat.

Such a hat makes you "look different" and that is what woman wants, although why she should want to look different from her Mother Eve, sitting in the garden before the snake came wiggling, is an eternal problem. Nature made her beautiful and, forever, she strives to look queer.

Former President Hoover, exofficio and in fact head of the republican party, congratulating Mr. Fletcher, new head of the republican national committee, wisely advises that "due representation be given to youth."

The old saying, "Young men think old men are fools; but old men know young men are fools," is out of date.

Young men are not as wise as old men, and the old are still needed for planning The young are needed to get things done. Old age hesitates, wonders, waits and opportunity goes by. The republican party will need all the youthful energy, and youthful power to decide, it can get in the fight ahead of it.

Camera Snaps Roaring Factory Fire As Walls Begin To Topple; Firemen Guard Gas Tanks

The upper photo, taken shortly after firemen arrived to battle flames which destroyed the old Queen Incubator factory, Fourteenth and X streets, Thursday afternoon, shows the southeast corner of the old factory building. A few minutes after this picture was snapped, the walls of the burning structure collapsed.

One of the danger spots of the fire is pictured below. Behind the line of empty oil barrels is a battery of pipes connecting 80,000 gallons of highly inflammable fuel with the Sinclair plant pump station. Firemen kept these pipes from bursting by spraying them continually with water.

World Topics Discussed By Speakers Of Suburban High School Classes As Exercises Held For 206 Seniors

Honors won during the school year were awarded at graduation exercises for 206 Jackson, Havelock, College View and Bethany high school seniors Thursday evening. Student speakers delivered orations

Jackson high school held its exercises in the First M. E. church and awarded diplomas to 77 seniors, while sixty-eight were graduated from Havelock high school in the high school auditorium. The College View high school exercises for 36 seniors were held in the Seventh-day Adventist church and the Bethany exercises for 25 graduates were held in the Bethany Christian church.

Recognition of Genelle Jenkins, Jean Marvin, Cathryn Weller, Bernice Martin, Ilene Raymer, Yvonne Gaylord, Betty Magee and Dale Stone as students ranking in the upper 10 per cent of their class scholastically was the feature of the Jackson high school graduation.

Four senior speakers delivered their addresses. Jean Marvin spoke on "Youth Calls," Mildred Holland's speech was entitled "Is Peace Possible," Howard Linch discussed "Will Constitutional Government Endure," and "The Challenge of The Scientific Age" was the subject of Margaret Jensen's speech.

Pleads For Youth.

W. A. Robbins, a member of the board of education, presented the diplomas to the graduates, while R. S. Mickle, principal of the high school, introduced the class. The high school choir and orchestra provided music and Warren Hammel played the organ prelude and recessional. Yvonne Gaylord, a graduate, played a trumpet solo with orchestral accompaniment. Dr. A. V. Hunter pronounced the invocation and Dr. W. F. Perry pronounced the benediction.

Miss Marvin in her address pleaded with the world to give youth an opportunity to use its many talents.

"Youth may be too zealous, too enthusiastic, too confident," she said. "Perhaps, however, an inpouring of the zeal and enthusiasm of youth might prove a tonic to this weary and depressed world. It might help to jar the world from its present dead-center habit. At any rate these are failings that will eliminate themselves, and all too soon youth will be smoothed and blended into just another person. Why not let him splash at a ten-league canvas in youth? If he has only the capacty to paint miniatures, life will soon reduce him to the proper proportions. But force youth to begin on miniatures, and the genius of a Rubens of a Michelangelo may be lost to the world."

Confiscation Of Munitions.

Declaring that "peace is possible only when the race in armaments ceases, when a universal monetary system is established, and when governmental confiscation of munition factories is accomplished." Miss Holland indicted munition manufacturers and their propaganda as one of the chief causes of war.

"Economic warfare, too, must cease if we are really to have peace," the speaker said. "For this purpose a World Economic Conference was called last year. As yet little has been accomplished—but it is something that a beginning has been made. Since in the last analysis all wars are chiefly economic in their causes, we can have a successful disarmament conference only when we have had a successful economic conference."

"We are confronted today with a new order of governmental control," Mr. Linch said. "The destiny of one hundred thirty million people is at stake. America, the wealthiest nation in the world has been swaying in the scales of financial catastrophe and unemployment of millions of her inhabitants. The minds of our greatest leaders are at a loss just what to do and everyone is asking the question, whither are we drifting and what will the end be."

New Order In Force.

"A new order of government has been in force during the last fourteen months," he continued. "New principles have been put into effect, different governmental organizations have been set up endowed with stupendous sums of money running high into the billions. Large dictatorial powers have been given by congress to various individuals. May it not be possible that we are thus establishing precedents which will lead us into serious trouble in the future? Our future shuld lie within the bounds of the constitution. The voices of Washington, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Wilson and many other great by gone political leaders call to us today from their tombs for a safe, sound, and secure government—rededicated to the constitution of these United States."

Miss Jensen in her speech said that the main problem facing the world today is the adjustment of our group life so to achieve widespread well-being, security and prosperity and predicted that the nations of the world would solve that problem.

"A civilization capable of such marvelous developments as these," she said, "surely can develop methods of protecting the individual without destroying initiative — and of elimnating want in the midst of plenty. To do this, to harmonize scientific and social progress is the challenge of our age. Let no one say it cannot be done. The problem, however, will not be solved by politicians nor by those unthinking individuals who loudly condemn their government without offering a constructive remedy. It will be solved just as the world's greatest problems have always been solved, by the clear-thinking, true-hearted Americans who put love of country and fellow men ahead of personal gain, look far into the future and build for a new and better tomorrow."

Awarded Scholarship.

Reuben Becker was awarded a regents' scholarship to the University of Nebraska valued at $70 for the freshman year and Betty Jane Lindholm was presented with a $150 scholarship to any of the state's normal schools at Havelock high school graduation exercises. Edna Martin was recognized as the class valedictorian and Charles McVey as the salutatorian.

Superintendent of schools, M. C. Lefler spoke briefly at the exercises. J. E. Loder, principal, presented the scholarships to the students and introduced the class. Attorney-General Paul F. Good awarded the diplomas. Music was furnished by the high school orchestra. Rev. R. French pronounced the invocation and the benediction.

Advocating an aroused public opinion, a rigid examination of an applicant's ability to operate a motor vehicle; constituted authority to suspend licenses for due cause and revoke when circumstances demand; publication of motor xehicle accident statistics covering the entire field as to how, when, where and why accidents occur; the extension of automatic traffic light signals to every highway intersection; the construction of wider highways and a strict enforcement of all laws affecting motor vehicle operation. Miss Mary Tree spoke on the subject of "How Can a Speeding World Be Made Safe."

Each One Can Help.

Miss Betty Jane Lindholm discussing the subject "This Dangerous Age," said that "each of us can do much to help make America safe by incorporating safety in the ordinary affairs of our daily life and by consistently refusing to 'take a chance.' A little time, a little effort, at the proper moment and we will not only save ourselves and decrease our dangers but those of others."

George Scott was announced as winner of a regents' scholarship to the University of Nebraska and Miss Barbara Gilbert was awarded the high school honor scholarship of the Nebraska Association of Church Schools at the College View exercises.

Louise Picking and Albert Detmer were senior speakers.

Arthur A. Dobson, a member of the board of education, presented the diplomas to the graduates, after Torval Johnson, principal of the high school, had introduced the class. A girls trio and a boys quartet sang several songs. The invocation and benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. H. Shilling, pastor of the Seventh-day Adventist church.

"Youth of today must blaze the trail into the world," Miss Picking, speaking upon the subject "Defense of Youth," said, 'There is no one else to do it. The past has failed and it is our turn. The youth that shows the way today must know a thousand and one things that men did not know nineteen centuries ago. It must know the intricate web of modern industrial life; how the machine fits into the complicated picture; how wealth and power must be controlled and fused for the common good; how men may live full, well-rounded lives and not be dominated by the lust for gold or spurred by uncontrolled personal ambition. Youth is ready to help. Though some of our actions may seem 'madcap' and overly ambitious, our motives are generally good. eW want to inspire your confidence in our ability to take up where you will leave off."

Leisure is Important.

Advocating more social education, Mr. Detmer said that "social education is of great importance to the individual, family, community and nation. In preparing us for our leisure time, social education prepares us for real living. The specialization of today in manufacturing hardly makes work enjoyable in the least so the only real joy we get is in our leisure time. Our spiritual mental, and physical wellbeing depends on how we use our leisure. The baffling economic problem must be studied and a solution found. We must conquer our own selfishness. To do this is the purpose of social education."

Mary Bird and Raymond Alber were the senior speakers at the Bethany high school exercises.

Frank Mills, a member of the board of education, presented the diplomas to the graduates. C. B. Mapes, principal of the high school, introduced the class.

Music was provided by a mixed quartet, Marjorie Matson, who played an organ selection; Paul Thompson, who sang a solo; Irvin Slattery, who played a trumpet solo; and Ruth Lomax and Mary Reynolds who sang a duet. Rev. Nelson Gardner pronounced the invocation and the benediction

Predicting that "communism will never succeed in America," Miss Bird suggested a "higher conception of service for all business men" as the standard for the big business men of tomorrow.

"The financial depression that we have just been through," she said, "is the first breakdown of the first effort to reconstruct the business of the world after the war. Most of the big business men knew something was wrong but everything was going so well for most people that they didn't stop to worry until there was a crash The reason they didn't use their influence was that they were intoxicated with money making. It is impossible to be a leader in anything and make money as a side line. There are several professions in which this has already been proved, such as public life, writing, painting, and other forms of art, teaching and the ministry. Now it has been proved that it cannot be done in finance and industry. The leader ought to be well enough paid that he need not worry about money, and after that ought not be interested in money."

Raymond Alber, speaking upon the subject "Transportation," traced the development of man's progress in that line from primitive days to the present day of fast automobiles, fast trains, and airplanes.

Three Killers Pay With Their Lives

Trio Electrocuted for New York Murder; Fourth Gets Respite.

OSSINING, N. Y., June 8—(INS)—The three officers of the Bronx "murder trust" met death casually last night in the lethal embrace of Sing Sing's electric chair. Death was no stranger to them. They knew it intimately. Murder for profit was their bloody business, their daily bread and butter, their constant comrade.

Four of them were to die. Frank Pasqua, Daniel Kriesberg and Anthony Marino were passengers on Charion's barge last night. But Joe Murphy, the clumsy, dim-witted bartender, didn't go. Four hours before the time of doom, Lieut. Gov William Bray gave him a two weeks respite.

It took sixteen minutes to burn the three of them with electricity. It took them months to kill mighty Mike Malloy. They fed him poisoned oysters, and he liked them; he drank quarts of wood alcohol and it made him merry; they fed him rotten sardines with a chopped death salad of splintered tin; they ran him down with an automobile; they left hm naked on a park bench in winter. Finally they lashed him to a bed and stuck a gas tube in his mouth.

They collected his insurance—and last night they died once for a murder they committed five times.

Farmer A. E. Anderson Shows Benefits Of Hog Reduction Plan

A. E. Anderson, state and federal agricultural statistician and a farmer in his own right, pointed to his own experience in support of the value to farmers of the AAA hog reduction program.

Anderson reported that he sold 45 pigs and three large hogs last week for $55, an average of $1.15 per head. Benefit payments, however, under his hog reduction contract wit hthe government will add $3.75 to the gross for a total of $4.90, or more than four times the market price.

"With such advantages, farmers will not throw up their corn-hog contracts," Anderson predicted.

Bar Fireworks Stands Near Gasoline Tanks

State Fire Marshal Butcher is endeavoring to discourage the sale or use of fireworks for the Fourth of July in the vicinity of gasoline service or storage stations outside of incorporated cities and villages, where municipal restrictions apply. He has issued an order prohibiting the erection of a fireworks stand within 200 feet of any gasoline establishment. Violators will be prosecuted, Butcher announces. Firecrackers, torpedoes, and sparklers are included in the list of articles that must not be sold within the prescribed limits.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., June 8—(AP)—R. O. Hodgman of Lincoln was elected president of the Nebraska Funeral Directors association at a meeting here Thursday which brought to a close the organization's three day annual convention.

R. O. Hodgman.

Omaha was selected as the 1935 convention city. Among the resolutions adopted by the organization was one endorsing the granting of pardons to convicts who voluntarily submit themselves to laboratory experiments expected to throw light on a possible tuberculosis cure. The resolution commended Governor Edward C. Johnson of Colorado for granting pardons to convicts inoculated with the disease and given serum treatments in the search for a cure.

"One of the major principles of our profession," the resolution said, "is to protect the public health and to do our part in preserving the present decreasing death rate."

Other officers elected were Roosevelt Luhrs of Imperial first vice president, Mrs. Pearl Schneringer of Broken Bow second vice president, C. A. Baker of Holdrege treasurer, and C. C. Haynes of Omaha a member of the executive council. Henry J. Schultz of Stanton was re-elected to the executive council.

Two Groups Applying For Wage Settlement

The Association of Maintenance of Way Foremen, Mechanics and Helpers of Burlington employes, as well as the Mechanical Department association, has filed application with the U. S. board of mediation for a separate wage settlement, according to H. L. Creviston, Lincoln, editor of the Association News, publication of the maintenance union.

Burlington employes outside of these two groups are all under the national wage settlement for gradual restoration of pay cuts, according to railroad officials here.

The maintenance group is asking a 7½ per cent raise on July 1 and the remaining 2½ per cent on April 1, 1935. The national settlement provides 2½ per cent July 1, 2½ per cent January 1, and 5 per cent April 1. The M. D. A. has asked the board of mediation to ratify a plan for 5 per cent restoration July 1 and 5 per cent April 1.

Tycho Brahe, of Denmark, impulsive nobleman scientist of the late sixteenth century, wore his golden nose to replace his natural one which he lost in a strange duel. The duel, fought when Brahe was a young man, was with a fellow student at the University of Rostock. It is sometimes said that the duel resulted from an argument over which of the two knew the more about mathematics, but whatever the cause the duel itself was strange.

It was fought at night with swords, in pitch darkness. The contestants had only their ears to guide them in the fight, their sense of sight was useless. Brahe unluckily or unwisely turned his head at the moment his opponent's sabre struck. The edge of the sword caught him across the bridge of the nose and severed that organ from his face.

Rather than go through life with this facial disfigurement, Brahe had a new nose fashioned from gold and silver alloy. It was so perfect in form and color that nothing less than close inspection would reveal that the nose was not his own.

Brahe's work in astronomy is notable in that upon it some highly important discoveries were later made. Although he did not accept, as we do now, the fact that the earth revolves about the sun, he did make many accurate observations and corrected many old errors handed down by earlier observers.

Dorothy Dell Loses Life as Doctor's Car Plunges Off Road.

PASADENA, Cal., June 8—(AP)—Dorothy Dell Goff, 20, who attained spectacular prominefice in motion pictures within the last several months, was killed early today in an automobile accident.

Her companion, Dr. Carl Wagner, 28, prominent Pasadena surgeon, who was questioned by authorities several months ago in connection with the unsolved murder of Dr. Leonard Siever, a leading Pasadena dentist, was fatally injured. He died six hours later.

Miss Goff, known on the screen as Dorothy Dell, and Dr. Wagner had just left an Altadena inn after a gay party, police said, when the doctor's large sedan plunged off a road, snapped off a light pole and came to rest at the bottom of a ditch.

Almost Instantly Killed.

The automobile, police reported, was telescoped to half its normal length.

Miss Dell, who also was known as Mickey Bell, lived but a few moments after the accident, police said.

Hospital surgeons reported Dr. Wagner suffered a basal skull fracture and severe leg injuries.

Miss Dell, who had appeared on the New York stage and in Ziegfeld's Follies, came to Hollywood last December. She won the beauty title of Miss Universe in 1930.

Beatrice Farmer Gets Fiftieth Sire Placed In Improvement Contest

Honors for owning the fiftieth sire to place in the "Better Sires" contest go to John Rhodes of Beatrice. Chieftain's Rustic Raleigh is the sire to win the award.

The contest is taking place between county units of the Dairy Herd Improvement association, with E. G. Scheidenhelm of the University of Nebraska extension department in charge. The objective is to put a better type of sires for milk stock on Nebraska farms.

In order to win classification, a complete record of each sire through five daughter-dam combinations must be kept, with regard to butter fat production. The sires are rated as "class proved" or "meritorious proved sires." In the latter case the record must show an increase of milk productiion in the daughter-dam combination.

Banish Body Odor This New Odorless Way

Leaves No M. S. (Medicine Smell)

It isn't the smell of a soap that gets you clean —it's the lather.

Ordinary toilet soaps don't lather freely enough in this hard water. They form a sticky soap-scum . . . and this soap-scum works into the pores and dams up stale perspiration.

Strong-smelling soaps—no matter how much they lather—can't keep a secret.

Kirk's Castile, being a 100% pure vegetable oil soap, lathers abundantly, even in hard, cold water. It goes deep into the pores, mixes with the stale perspiration curds and sets them free. In a twinkling your body is as fresh and clean-smelling as a woodland breeze!

"Lathers Instantly in This Hard Water" —says citizen of Belvidere, Illinois, where water is hardest in the state.

Try Kirk's Coco Castile today. It's odorless. And half again larger than average toilet soaps—an exceptional bargain. Be sure to ask for Kirk's by name.

Used As Warehouse.

The fire spent its fury in the main factory building, a rambling sheet iron structure measuring 340 by 150 feet, part of which was two stories high This building once housed the offices and factory of the incubator concern but in the past three years has been used as a storage plant by the Northwestern Iron and Metal company

Baled rags and papers, stored in the building, were converted into tons of smouldering rubbish and the flames subsided.

A tile-faced building, property of the Northwestern railroad, formerly used as the heating and power plant for the factory was badly damaged. The tile building itself measures about 30 by 75 feet, but a sheet metal extension, approximately 150 feet long, had been added at the rear of the building.

Annex Totally Wrecked.

The extension, sheltering bales of paper and rags, was totally wrecked but the tile building, for the most part, was left intact In direct path of the leaping flames, the roof was partially burned from the tile, one-story walls. A section of the northwest wall, weakened by terrific heat, crumbled and fell but the bare interior of the building apparently was not seriously damaged.

Standing about 30 feet north of the tile plant is a third brick building, also owned by the Northwestern railroad. This structure, about 30 by 90 feet, erected to accommodate the laboratory for the hatchery factory, was saved from serious damage.

The fire area was virtually bordered on two sides by huge gasoline storage tanks and had it not been for the persistent south wind, Fire Chief Hansen said, it is doubtful whether a mighty explosion of Sinclair Refining Co. tanks could have been prevented

Kempkes Discovers Blaze.

L. E Kempkes, employe at the Sinclair plant, which is located just south of the main incubator building site, discovered the fire and turned in the alarm

"I heard a loud 'puff' and when I looked up it seemed that the entire factory was in flames," Kempkes said "Thick smoke was rolling up and the flames were popping."

When firemen arrived, one crew was sent to guard seven storage tanks located at the west end of the Sinclair property, within 25 yards of the blazing warehouse. The tank nearest the flames contained 20,000 gallons of furnace fuel, highly inflammable, and the remaining six were each filled with 60,000 gallons of gasoline

With the intense heat threatening the tanks, firemen sent streams of water over the metal sides of the huge containers. Police drove back crowds of onlookers

Pipes Cause Worry.

But not only the tanks presented a serious problem. A battery of pipes, connecting the tanks with the Sinclair plant pumping station, lay parallel to the burning building not more than 10 feet away.

T. H. Hudson, Sinclair agent for the Lincoln district, said intense heat could easily have caused these pipes to explode. Mr Hudson said he considered it fortunate that the tank nearest the fire contained furnace distillate rather than gasoline, the latter being more apt to explode.

Anxious lest the wind should suddenly change and whip flames toward storage tanks, seven fire crews worked frantically to control blaze which had obtained such a hopeless lead in so few minutes.

Frame Extension Blazes.

Thousands of burning embers, screened by thick, choking smoke whipped across to the two north buildings, starting roof fires and turning the frame extension of the former power plant into a roaring strip of fire.

One box car, containing baled rags and papers, had been switched on a Missouri Pacific spur track for unloading at the tile building, and flames soon covered this. The car had been left at the storage house Thursday morning.

Fence posts, between the North Western railroad property and Missouri Pacific property on which the main factory was located, blazed like beacons and the wires melted. As the heat from the burning freigh car increased, the rails twisted fantastically and the ties were uprooted.

Ever working northward, the flames at last reached a frame 6-stall garage at the rear of the north brick building. The dry wood was consumed like tinder and added its sparks to the whirl above.

Coal Yard Menaced.

When the flames came dangerously close to the Cash Coal company, 1115 North Fourteenth street, foremen scurried to soak five uncovered piles of coal. To the north of the coal yard, three gasoline storage tanks stand These tanks contained 18,000 gallons of gasoline, property of the Night and Day garage. Firemen, as well as employes of the garage, kept close watch over patches of fire which crept toward these fuel containers.

The main band of fire, however, never reached beyond the second incubator building. Aside from charring here and there about the roof and on window sills, the third brick building was unscathed.

Power Lines Discontinued.

Beaten back by unrelenting streams of water, the flames seemed content to stay within the borders they had gained in the first mad burst. As they sank lower into the jumbled mass of debris, small patches of fire were left licking at the tops of telephone poles. Electricians had been previously called to disconnect high line wires.

Even though the flames quieted, the heat remained terrific through the late afternoon. Thousands of Lincoln people watched the fire and seemed untroubled by either the heat of the day or fire.

Late evening found three fire crews still plodding over the smoking, blazing jumble of bales, crumpled sheet iron and bricks.

Assistant Fire Chief Donnelly, who was in command Thursday evening, said efforts would be made Friday to wade through the tons of bales and spread their smouldering contents. Otherwise, he said, the fitful blazes might continue for days.

bation to the Chicago district under Probation Officer William McGrath but the probation was revoked today at Chicago by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone.

WATERLOO, Ia., June 8—(AP)—New clues to John Dillinger's whereabouts—alive or dead—were hunted today over the back trail of Tommy Carroll.

When quick-shooting detectives pumped five bullets into Carroll yesterday, they erased another of the crime brothers of Dillinger; but their gun fire was a bit too good, for it sealed lips that might have given valuable information about America's No. 1 bad man.

O. H. Dewey, a federal agent, questioned Carroll before the 38-year-old gunman died, but so far as he would say Carroll had nothing to offer concerning Dillinger. Officers were even doubtful for several hours of the dying man's identification of himself as the Tommy Carroll who went about with Dillinger on forays against midwest banks. Identification was made positive, however, by fingerprints.

With Carroll was Jean Crompton. She said she was his wife. Police are holding her. She was one of the three women arrested following Dillinger's escape from the Little Bohemia resort at Mercer, Wis.

Another Couple Sought.

Police heard that another man and another woman had been companions of Carroll and the 21-year-old Crompton girl, and search for them was being pressed today. After the shooting of Carroll, the missing couple hitch-hiked out of town, the police heard.

The Crompton girl, however, said there were no others beside Carroll and herself. She claimed she married Carroll a week or ten days ago in a "little town in Michigan" after a romance which started in a Minneapolis, Minn., night club.

She recently was released from jail at Madison, Wis., on probation after being sentenced to a year imprisonment on a charge of harboring Dillinger. Both she and Carroll were in the Mercer, Wis., roadhouse when the Dillinger mobsmen shot their way out of a federal trap April 22.

Although the Crompton girl claimed she was Mrs. Carroll, authorities were advised that the gangster's widow is Viola Carroll of St. Paul, Minn.

Sending Body to St. Paul.

Acting on instructions from Mrs. Carroll to a local undertaking firm, the authorities planned to send Carroll's body by train to St. Paul today for burial.

Carroll's companion was questioned at length for clues to the identity of their local companions and for a possible clue as to the whereabouts of John Dilinger himself.

Accused of several midwestern bank robberies, at least two slayings and a mounting list of crimes reported by midwestern authorities, Carroll was shot down about a half block from the local police station.

Detectives Emil Steffen and P. E. Walker had been watching Carroll's car, acting on a tip from a garage mechanic. As the officers sought to arrest him Carroll struggled with Walker and was the target for the shots of the two officers as he broke away.

Through her tears, Mrs. Viola Carroll told of her marriage in East St. Louis in November, 1925. She has been separated from him, said said, since July 14, 1932.

"I don't care what anybody says or what Tommy has done," she sobbed, "he was the finest fellow in the world. He was always good to me and if he left me because he was crazy over another girl, why that's all there was to it."

Mrs. Carroll was bitter toward the woman arrested in Waterloo.

"I know what happened," she declared. "They just turned that woman loose so that she would get Tommy and lead him into a police trap. If I ever see her it will be just too bad for her."

Served Jail Term in Omaha.

OMAHA, Neb., June 8—(AP)—Detestive Mac Andersen yesterday revealed the tortuous criminal career of Tommy Carroll, Dillinger lieutenant who was shot by Waterloo, Ia., officers, began here in 1920 when he was arrested for auto theft and sentenced to 60 days in jail.

In the 14 intervening years Carroll, who arrived in Omaha from Montana, has been arrested and convicted in most of the larger cities in the middlewest, and was sought for at least two murders.

His first prison term was imposed at Council Bluffs, Ia., in 1921 when he was sentenced to five years at Anamosa reformatory. He served 13 months, later returning to Council Bluffs for a time as a taxicab driver and hotel clerk.

His next apperances on police records were in Kansas City, St. Louis St. Joseph, Mo., Tulsa, and St. Paul. At St. Joseph he was convicted of bank robbery and sentenced to five years, serving two. In Tulsa, he received a two year sentence to Leavenworth federal penitentiary for auto theft.

SAYS ROOSEVELT NEBRASKA ISSUE

Burke Representative Claims Loyalty To President Is Test.

OMAHA, June 8—(AP)—Loyalty to President Roosevelt was described as a "clear-cut issue" in the Nebraska democratic senatorial race by Homer Gruenther ,secretary to Rep. Edward R. Burke of Omaha, who returned from Washington today to launch Burke's campaign.

"The issue is this," Gruenther said. "Are Nebraska democrats for or against President Roosevelt and his program? Congresman Burke has been and is one of the president's staunchest supporters. Governor Bryan has been the most outspoken Nebraska democrat in his criticism of the president's program."

Gruenther said he probably would visit Lincoln early next week to attend to Burke's filing as a senatorial candidate. He said Burke would remain in Washington until congress adjourns, and branded as "absolutely untrue" 'recent reports that Burke was considering withdrawing from the race.

Federal Road Money Near Two Millions

Nebraska's Share For Coming Fiscal Year Expected To Be Approximately $1,950,000.

OMAHA, June 8—(AP)—Local good roads advocates today estimated that, based on past experience, Nebraska will probably receive approximately $1,950,000 as its share of the $100,000,000 proposed federal highways appropriation for the coming fiscal year, as part of the contemplated $1,00,000,000 three year federal program.

They pointed out that Nebraska's share of the $400,000,000 appropriation, for the past fiscal year, was $7,800,000. The proposed new appropriation is one-fourth of last year's.

In addition to the federal money, the 4-cent a gallon gas tax in Nebraska raises about $8,000,000 a year.

Playground Season Will Open Monday

The ninth season of playground activities under the direction of the Lincoln recreation commission, will open Monday at fourteen recreation centers, according to arrangements completed Friday noon at the chamber of commerce. James Lewis, recreation director, will be in charge. The centers: F street park, Hayward, Saratoga, Capitol, Elliot, College View, Bethany, University Place, Whittier schools, and Peter Pan, Whittier schools, and Peter Pan.

In the event that FERA funds are made available for recreation, the program will be extended to include about forty playgrounds.

Contracts Let.

Contracts were awarded to low bidders on all but two of the highway projects on which bids were received Thursday, State Engineer Roy Cochran said Friday. Bids on which contracts were awarded totalled $46,579. Projects on which contracts were deferred pending consultation with federal officials are a small paving project in Pawnee City and a stretch of bituminous mat surfacing west of Merriman.

To Be No Curtailing Goodwill Industries

Will Respond to Urgent Need In City by Keeping Up Activity Through Summer.

There will be no curtailment of the activities of the Goodwill Industries, Inc., during the summer months, the management announced Friday. The decision was reached in view of the urgent need in the community.

The present large number of employes and those who find temporary employment in the shops will be retained. Although workers are handling a large number of garments that will not be needed until fall the industries are asking that Lincoln people continue to give used garments, furniture and other things so that needy may be helped toward self-support.

Industries trucks will be sent to pick up any article that people will give and everything can be utilized by the Industries.

In her report for May, Mrs. Lizzie Churchill, manager, stated that in addition to the number employed, no less than 2,204 customers purchased, at very little cost, 5,000 articles in the various departments of the store. In particular demand now is clothing suitable for girls of high school age and girls seeking employment. The Industries shops are located at 1010 Q street, telephone, B4548.

Text Of President's Message To Congress On Social Legislation

WASHINGTON, (AP). The text of President Roosevelt's message to congress, outlining a threefold attack on the problems of human security, follows:

To the congress of the United States:

You are completing a work begun in March, 1933, which will be regarded for a long time as a splendid justification of the vitality of representative government. I greet you and express once more my appreciation of the cooperation which has proved so effective.

Only a small number of the items of our program remain to be enacted and I am confident that you will pass on them before adjournment. Many other pending measures are sound in conception, but must, for lack of time or of adequate information, be deferred to the session of the next congress. In the meantime, we can well seek to adjust many of these measures into certain larger plans of government policy for the future of the nation.

You and I, as the responsible directors of these policies and actions, may, with good reason, look to the future with confidence, just as we may look to the past fifteen months with reasonable satisfaction.

On the side of relief we have extended material aid to millions of our fellow citizens.

On the side of recovery we have helped to lift agriculture and industry from a condition of utter prostration.

But, in addition to these immediate tasks of relief and recovery we have properly, necessarily and with overwhelming approval determined to safeguard these tasks by rebuilding many of the structures of our economic life and of reorganizing it in order to prevent a recurrence of collapse.

Democracy Must Save Itself.

It is childish to speak of recovery first and reconstruction afterward. In the very nature of the processes of recovery we must avoid the destructive influences of the past. We have shown the world that democracy has within it the elements necessary to its own salvation.

Less hopeful countries where the ways of democracy are very new may revert to the autocracy of yesterday. The American people can be trusted to decide wisely upon the measures to be taken by the government to eliminate the abuses of the past and to proceed in the direction of the greater good for the greater number.

Our task of reconstruction does not require the creation of new and strange values. It is rather the finding of the way once more to known, but to some degree forgotten, ideals and values. If the means and details are in some instances new, the objectives are as permanent as human nature.

Three Factors in Security.

Among our objectives I place the security of the men, women and children of the nation first.

This security for the individual and for the family concerns itself primarily with three factors. People want decent homes to live in; they want to locate them where they can engage in productive work; and they want some safeguard against misfortunes which cannot be wholly eliminated in this manmade world of ours.

In a simple and primitive civilization homes were to be had for the building. The bounties of nature in a new land provided crude but adequate food and shelter. When land failed, our ancestors moved on to better land. It was always possible to push back the frontier, but the frontier has now disappeared. Our task involves the making of a better living out of the lands that we have.

So also, security was attained in the earlier days thru the interdependence of members of families upon each other and of the families within a small community upon each other. The complexities of great communities and of organized industry make less real these simple means of security. Therefore, we are compelled to employ the active interest of the nation as a whole thru government in order to encourage a greater security for each individual who composes it.

Have Attacked Housing Problem.

With the full co-operation of the congress we have already made a serious attack upon the problem of housing in our great cities. Millions of dollars have been appropriated for housing projects by federal and local authorities, often with the generous assistance of private owners. The task thus begun must be pursued for many years to come. There is ample private money for sound housing projects; and the congress, in a measure now before you, can stimulate the lending of money for the modernization of existing homes and the building of new homes. In pursuing this policy we are working toward the ultimate objective of making it possible for American families to live as Americans should.

Need National Land Policy.

In regard to the second factor, economic circumstances and the forces of nature themselves dictate the need of constant thought as to the means by which a wise government may help the necessary readjustment of the population. We cannot fail to act when hundreds of thousands of families live where there is no reasonable prospect of a living in the years to come. This is especially a national problem. Unlike most of the leading nations of the world, we have so far failed to create a national policy for the development of our land and water resources and for their better use by those people who cannot make a living in their present positions. Only thus can we permanently eliminate many millions of people from the relief rolls on which their names are now found.

The extent of the usefulness of our great natural inheritance of land and water depends on our mastery of it. We are now so organized that science and invention have given us the means of more extensive and effective attacks upon the problems of nature than ever before. We have learned to utilize water power, to reclaim deserts, to recreate forests and to redirect the flow of population. Until recently we have proceeded almost at random, making many mistakes.

Need for Planning.

There are many illustrations of the necessity for such planning. Some sections of the northwest and southwest which formerly existed as grazing land, were spread over with a fair crop of grass. On this land the water table lay a dozen or twenty feet below the surface, and newly arrived settlers put this land under the plow. Wheat was grown by dry farming methods. But in many of these places today the water table under the land has dropped to thirty or sixty feet below the surface and the top soil in dry seasons is blown away like driven snow. Failing rain, in the absence of grass roots, filters thru the soil, runs off the surface, or is quickly reabsorbed into the atmosphere. Many million acres of such land must be restored to grass or trees if we are to prevent a new and manmade Sahara.

At the other extreme, there are regions originally arid, which have been generously irrigated by human engineering. But in some of these places the hungry soil has not only absorbed the water necessary to produce magnificent crops, but so much more water that the water table has now risen to the point of saturation, thereby threatening the future of crops upon which many families depend.

Human knowledge is great enough today to give us assurance of success in carrying thru the abandonment of many millions of acres for agricultural use and the replacing of these acres with others on which at least a living can be earned.

Cannot Work Too Fast.

The rate of speed that we can usefully employ in this attack on impossible social and economic conditions must be determined by businesslike procedure. It would be absurd to undertake too many projects at once or to do a patch of work here and another there without finishing the whole of an individual project. Obviously, the government cannot undertake national projects in every one of the 435 congressional districts nor even in every one of the forty-eight states. The magnificent conception of national realism and national needs that this congress has built up has not only set an example of large vision for all time but has almost consigned to oblivion our ancient habit of pork barrel legislation to that we cannot and must not revert. When the next congress convenes I hope to be able to present to it a carefully considered national plan, covering the development and the human use of our national resources of land and water over a longer period of years.

Must Rehabilitate Many Families.

In considering the cost of such a program it must be clear to all of us that for many years to come we shall be engaged in the task of rehabilitating many hundreds of thousands of our American families. In so doing we shall it will be possible for the government to adopt as a clear policy to be carried out over a long period, the appropriation of a large, definite, annual sum so that work may proceed year after year not under the urge of temporary expediency, but in pursuance of the well considered rounded objective.

Social Insurance Urged.

The third factor relates to security against the hazards and vicissitudes of life. Fear and worry based on unknown danger contribute to social unrest and economic demoralization. If, as our constitution tells us, our federal government was established among other things "to promote the general welfare" it is our plain duty to provide for that security upon which welfare depends.

Next winter we may well undertake the great task of furthering the security of the citizen and his family thru social insurance.

This is not an untried experiment. Lessons of experience are available from states, from industries and from many nations of the civilized world. The various types of social insurance are inter-related; and I think it is difficult to attempt to solve them piecemeal. Hence, I am looking for a sound means which I can recommend to provide at once security against several of the great disturbing factors in life—especially those which relate to unemployment and old age. I believe there should be a maximum of co-operation between states and the federal government. I believe that the funds necessary to provide this insurance should be raised by contribution rather than by an increase in general taxation. Above all, I am convinced that social insurance should be national in scope, altho the several states should meet at least a large portion of the cost of management, leaving to the federal government the responsibility of investing, maintaining and safeguarding the funds constituting the necessary insurance reserves.

Is Already Formulating the Plans.

I have commenced to make, with the greatest care, the necessary actuarial and other studies for the formulation of plans for the consideration of the seventy-fourth congress.

These three great objectives—the security of the home, the security of livelihood, and the security of social insurance are, it seems to me, a minimum of the promise that we can offer to the American people. They constitute a right which belongs to every individual and every family willing to work. They are the essential fulfillment of measures already taken toward relief, recovery and reconstruction.

This seeking for a greater measure of welfare and happiness does not indicate a change in values. It is rather a return to values lost in the course of our economic development and expansion.

Ample Scope for Private Initiative.

Ample scope is left for the exercise of private initiative. In fact, in the process of recovery, I am greatly hoping that repeated promises that private investment and private initiative to relieve the government in the immediate future of much of the burden it has assumed will be fulfilled. We have not imposed undue restrictions upon business. We have not opposed the incentive of reasonable and legitimate private profit. We have sought rather to enable certain aspects of business to regain the confidence of the public. We have sought to put forward the rule of fair play in finance and industry.

Critics of "New Deal" Rebuked.

It is true that there are a few among us who would still go back. These few offer no substitute for the gains already made, nor any hope for making future gains for human happiness They loudly assert that individual liberty is being restricted by government, but when they are asked what individual liberties they have lost, they are put to it to answer.

We must dedicate ourselves anew to a recovery of the old and sacred possessive rights for which mankind has constantly struggled—homes, livelihood, and individual security. The road to these values is the way of progress. Neither you nor I will rest content until we have done our utmost to move further on that road.

Park policemen are making an effort to apprehend the vandals. Several globes at Twenty-third and O street entrance to the park also have been broken.

MANY COUNTIES SIGN AID PACTS

Haynes Reports General Willingness Pledge Relief Levies.

While rampant rebellion is on in southeastern Nebraska against the program laid down by Federal Relief Agent Rowland Haynes requiring counties to levy 1.93 mills for general relief the next fiscal year, and also use 25 per cent of their gasoline tax money to provide jobs for persons on relief lists, the northwestern section was reported Friday as falling into line quite generally on these conditions.

Mr. Haynes, who is holding a series of district meetings with county board members in northern and western Nebraska, informed his office by long distance telephone Friday morning that in the past three days he has canvassed the situation with representatives of more than half the 72 counties now on the state FERA list, and that signed agreements have been obtained from 80 per cent of the counties consulted.

Government Not "Bluffing."

Haynes conferred with officials of 15 counties Wednesday at O'Neill; 13 others on Thursday at Alliance; and with spokesmen for 14 counties Friday at North Platte.

The meeting held at Beatrice by officials of seven southeastern counties, at which it was agreed not to accede to the relief administration's demands, has not especially disturbed Haynes' assistants at the state headquarters of the FERA.

Acting State Director Harry Elmore expressed the opinion that as soon as they find out the federal government is not "bluffing" the objecting county officials will change their minds and fall into line with the rest. If they don't, he suggested, they may find that the counties will be left to carry their own relief load without any federal assistance at all. A definite statement as to how the matter will be dealt with, Elmore said, must await the return of Federal Agent Haynes to Lincoln, probably on Saturday.

Symptoms of insurgency, however, are appearing in other parts of the state as well as in the southeastern counties. Governor Bryan has been asked by officials of Burt county to use his influence in preventing the withdrawal of federal relief from counties that do not obligate themselves in advance to make the 1.93 mill levy for relief, in addition to mothers' pensions, soldiers relief, and maintenance of poor farms or homes.

SEEK RESTORE LAKE.

The board of directors of the Lincoln Izaak Walton league Friday noon started a campaign for restoration of Capital Beach lake. The purpose is to establish a federal game refuge.

Driver Sentenced.

Pleading guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated, T. J. Koontz was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and his driver's license revoked for a year, Friday morning in Municipal court. M. Thornton, arraigned on a similar charge pleaded not guilty. Trial was set for June 15, and bond fixed at $500.

State Concludes Its Case Against James Dobry; Omaha Child Run Over By Truck Is Dead

FIRST DEFENSE WITNESS CALLED

Son Lays Foundation for Ballistic Expert Testimony.

SCHUYLER, Neb., June 8—(AP)—The state rested Friday in its murder case against James Dorby, 70, for the alleged jealousy slaving of William Henesh, 35-year-old bachelor. A court reporter's records were quoted by the prosecutor to show Dobry's story had been contradicted by prosecution witnesses

Henesh was found dead from a bullet wound in a burning automobile last January and it is the state's theory he was shot by Dobry because Catherine Vondra, 30, rural school teacher had spurned him and accepted Henesh's proposal of marriage The teacher testified Thursday

Testimony Is Read.

John Cain, Columbus court reporter, identified his transcript of testimony taken just before Dobry was arrested In it the defendant said he was sick in bed the night of the shooting A state witness during the trial said he had been seen at the home of a son, Adolph Dobry

Adolph was the first defense witness and spent more than an hour laying groundwork for testimony of defense ballistic experts Two ballistic experts for the state identified the bullet found in Henesh's body as having been fired from a gun James Dobry borrowed from a local hardware store a few days before the shooting

The son told of finding two bullets his father was believed to have fired, one into a tank and the other into a tree, while he had the borrowed gun

12,000 PUT TO WORK IN MAY

Nebraska Job Placing Gaining, Cornell Reports.

Over 12,000 men and women in Nebraska, previously registered as unemployed, found jobs during May, as shown by reports which State Employment Director Cornell has gathered from his district and county assistants. This was an increase of almost 1,000 over the number put to work in April.

There were 11 257 men and 754 women in the state, making a total of 12,011, who acquired the status of wage earners last month This compares with 10 468 placements for men and 600 for women during April a total of 11,068 in that month.

Of the placements made in May, 8,918 men and 581 women were added to regular payrolls, while 2,339 men and 173 women were given temporary employment.

Federal, state, county, and municipal public works projects absorbed 7,174 men, and other 4,083 being given private jobs. All the 754 women were reported as taking private positions.

The state employment office has a circular from the national office at Washington warning laborers from other states that the short wheat crop in Nebraska, Kansas, Texas, and Oklahoma will provide no opportunities for employment of outside labor, and that wages of harvest hands, in any event, will probably not exceed $1.50 a day. The bulletin says spring wheat prospects in the Dakotas are so poor as to hold out no inducement for migratory workers to go there, either. The harvest season, it is pointed out, will be very short in all these states

"The next legislature" he added, "must provide a program to help thousands of men and women to work when the national government steps out of the picture"

Metcalfe declared himself for prohibition repeal and said, "The matter is before us, we should handle the question of drink legally and not allow bootleggers to handle it as is now being done"

"The return of clean, honest, decent government to the state capitol instead of purely political hokum that exists there now," was pledged by Griswold

Lack Of Sugar Causes Omahan End Own Life

OMAHA, June 8 — (AP) — Henry M. Gregerson, 48, Omaha accountant, shot and killed himself in his office here Thursday. He took his life as a result of his failure to go out to lunch, in the belief of a brother and business partner, Louis J Gregerson.

"He would not have killed himself if he had gone out to lunch when I did at noon He was suffering from a rare disease—one which required almost continual quantities of sweets in addition to three heavy meals a day His failure to eat at noon was the cause of his death," said Louis

Henry's body, slumped in a chair with a bullet wound in the right temple, was found by Louis when he returned from lunch A gun lay on the floor beside the chair.

"Henry had been eating something sweet two and three times a day When he didn't eat at these regular intervals he just lost control of himself That is what happened today," Louis said.

Earliest Harvest In History of Southeast Nebraska Is Started

Southeast Nebraska's wheat harvest, what there is of it, has begun a full two weeks ahead of the usual time. Drouth and heat ripened the wheat the earliest, it is believed, in the history of the section.

An Associated Press dispatch from Falls City stated the first farmer to put a binder in the field was Sam Lee, of the Dawson vicinity He is cutting a 30 acre tract that is expected to run 13 bushels to the acre—half of last year's yield

A report from DeWitt says that Otis Koch living southwest of the town, began cutting a 125 acre tract Thursday He is expecting a yield of 15 to 20 bushels an acre The yield over Saline county is expected to average between 8 and 10 bushels

Lancaster County Agent Purbaugh said Friday that no reports had come in of cuttings in this county. "Half of the wheat has been abandoned and while some fields will make as much as 10 to 15 bushels, the average for the county probably will not be over 5 bushels an acre," he stated.

—a reason

FRANKLY, one of the chief reasons why I enjoy Chesterfield is the fact that I don't get little crumbs of tobacco in my mouth.

Rarely ever do I find a Chesterfield that isn't well filled. The tobacco in them seems to be of the right length, and they must be the right size because they burn right and smoke right.

I like them also because they are milder.

END OF A DYNASTY.

ABDICATION of the Vare dynasty in Philadelphia should not pass without fitting notice. In the city of Brotherly Love, the sunlight of the New Deal has penetrated about as deeply as it has any place in the United States, and that is unexpected.

What happened to the Vare machine has been repeated many times in political history.

It was sunk from within, and not from without. Had its creator the strength to continue in active control, it might have been a different story. But from the time that "Boss" Bill, suffering from a faulty heart, found it necessary to turn direction over to another man, the ultimate verdict was certain. There was no one to take his place, and with his shrewd knowledge of human nature, the political finesse he displayed on numerous occasions, welded into an effective force.

No tears will be shed over the overthrow of the Vare gang. It was one of the most sinister in American politics. It did, on repeated occasions, what neither Tammany, the "Big Bill" Thompson gang, nor the Pendergast machine was able to do. Tammany did have a strangle hold upon New York City, but it could not dictate New York state affairs. Always there was sufficient unified opposition upstate to smash any dyed-in-the-wool Tammany candidate for state office. "Big Bill" Thompson was able to lead the people of Chicago around by the nose, but outstate he was just a big bum. In Missouri, "Boss" Pendergast of Kansas City was the czar in his own bailiwick, but a pygmy out in the rural districts, and regularly the Pendergast-backed candidates went down to defeat.

With Vare, a close alliance with the Mellon interests, gave him victory, not only in his home city, but made him political boss of the state of Pennsylvania. The election practices were a reproach to honest government. His own candidacy for the senate was so marked with dubious voting that he was denied a seat in the United States senate, to which the returns indicated he had been elected.

Two years ago, Pennsylvania gave evidence of an awakening conscience. While the Vare-Mellon machine was able to retain the state's electoral votes for the republican party, the result was so close that it furnished one of the major surprises. Since then, the drift has been in the same direction. In the recent primary, Senator David Reed, supported by the Vare machine, won, but the combined vote of his opponents, and the democratic nominee for the senate was much greater than that polled by Reed.

Out of the confusion and disappointments of readjustment, some distinctly hopeful and encouraging signs may be seen. There has been distinct improvement made in the cause of good municipal government in the great cities, where affairs constituted a mater of serious concern. New York's finances were in bad shape—Chicago virtually was bankrupt—Philadelphia, in slightly better shape, but cursed nevertheless by "boss" rule. It is something to smash such old traditional machines as Tammany, as the Vare organization, and the Thompson gang, all in the short space of two years, and yet that is what has happened. For the first time in nearly two decades, Tammany took a sound whaling; in Chicago, Thompson, attempting a comeback, did not even come close; and in Philadelphia, the Vare dynasty is terminated.

It is an illuminating example to the country that the old brand of machine politics is in disrepute, and that the swing toward more responsive, wholesome government continues. These events mean much to America. It has been machine rule, whether within the republican or the democratic party, which is at the root of evil. The incredible has happened. In America's three largest cities, the old order has been destroyed.

CAN MAN CONTROL THE WEATHER?

BACK in the middle '90s, when the interior of the United States was parched with a blistering drouth much like the present one, several amateur weather wizards claimed that they had discovered methods of producing rainfall artificially, and the experiments they carried on attracted widespread attention. With financial backing which they enlisted in some arid communities, they would shoot off a lot of aerial bombs and fireworks and then wait for clouds to form. In a few instances the bombarding was actually followed by precipitation, and in one unfortunate instance a tornado descended upon the town where the rainmaker had done his work.

But unfeeling critics insisted that such showers as came to relieve the heat and dryness were just a happenstance and not in any way related to the atmospheric disturbances created by the weather engineers. There was extensive public discussion pro and con between the rainmakers and their partisans, on one side, and the doubters and scoffers on the other. After it died down, everybody forgot all about the matter.

Now a man out at Cheyenne comes forward with the new hypothesis that radio waves are what has put the elements out of kilter, and he wants an embargo placed on all broadcasting for 90 days. Presumably, if his idea were carried out and the country should get some good rains during the ensuing ethereal vacation, he would firmly believe that it was the direct consequence of placing the ban on wireless communication.

A contributor to the People's Forum department of this newspaper several days ago lamented the damage done all over the agricultural regions of the United States by draining off ponds, lakes, and marshy tracts in order to increase the acreage of tillable lands. He was inclined to blame the lack of rainfall now on this drying up of moist surface areas from which water might have been drawn up into the air to form clouds and bring precipitation to refresh the soil.

There is no doubt whatever that too much drainage of low, wet lands and small bodies of water, as well as the destruction of forests which hold moisture by preventing evaporation and too rapid flowing off, has had some effect in making the climate dryer than it otherwise would be. It is also generally conceded that the more water surface a country has the more likelihood there is of getting sufficient rainfall to grow crops, keep soil in good condition, and meet the requirements of humankind, animals, and vegetation.

However, proximity to rivers, lakes, seas, and oceans does not by any means guarantee a drouth-proof climate. Southern California, for instance, with a long coast line on one side and mountains on the other, is one of the dryest places in the United States. Water must be piped as far as 250 miles to supply the domestic needs of cities and irrigate the orchards, vineyards, and farms of the country districts.

Michigan, a state enclosed on three sides and part of the fourth by the great lakes and their connecting rivers, is suffering as acutely right now from long-continued dry and hot weather as Nebraska and Kansas. Minnesota, Wisconsin, also adjacent to the great lakes and dotted with innumerable smaller ones, have been equally afflicted until a day or two ago, when they got some good rains. The precipitation that relieved Minnesota was even heavier over in the two Dakotas, which have no lakes to speak of.

All of which is pretty convincing evidence that, while man can do a little to assist nature, he is powerless to prevail against her, particularly in the matter of weather. The better course is to impound the water when it falls and to release it when necessary.

EMERGENCY TREATMENT.

A NUMBER of Omaha hospitals have brought suit in the district court there against the city of Omaha, asking judgment for $7,100, alleged to be due for service rendered in emergency cases. It is alleged that the city commissioners have rejected the claims, which fact recalls the Madison county case in which the board refused to allow a high class surgeon $100 for performing an emergency appendix operation upon a woman in indigent circumstances.

Occurrences of this nature must lead observers to the belief that if one without means should need emergency medical or surgical treatment, it would just be too bad. Hospitals must turn the patient away and practitioners must do the same, for neither city nor county will pay. Either this or the hospital and doctor must furnish their services gratis, which would be rank injustice.

It is a well known fact that an emergency case is rarely if ever turned away from a hospital, and in few such cases does the patient make choice as to the hospital to which he or she is taken. Prompt attention may save a life, and the patient is as a rule taken to the hospital most conveniently located, which is the sensible course to pursue. If the one to whom service is rendered is unable to pay, someone else should be required to do so.

It should be an easy thing for hospital, city and county authorities to get together on a plan for handling emergency cases involving indigents. A reasonable charge might be agreed upon, applicable to all hospitals, and whenever it is shown that the person receiving the service is unable to pay, either the city or the county, whichever is obligated in the circumstances, should compensate the hospital.

There seems to be too great a tendency upon the part of city and county officials to disregard the duty of society to look after the needy who may require medical attention. There are bickerings between the two bodies as to which should handle the case, and repudiation of claims of hospitals and doctors upon the slightest pretext. It is humiliating and disgusting and does not reflect the attitude of the general public.

MULTIPLE BIRTHS.

WHEN Dr. Logan Clendening says that Mrs. Dionne and her five daughters represent a rare case in authenticated medical history, still, by comparison with some of the stories which have been told, she is far from a record holder, the public will give heed. Dr. Clendening has achieved a national reputation for his writing on medical science. He points out that Seignette of Dijon, a writer on medical curiosities, told in 1755 of the birth of nine children. Pare, a French surgeon and writer of the eighteenth century, quotes Mirandilae, the Polish historian, that an Italian mother bore twenty children in two accouchements, nine at one and eleven at the other. And according to LeBrun, another French medical writer, Gilles de Trazegines, who accompanied St. Louis on the crusades, and who was made constable of France, was one of thirteen children born at a single birth.

In the same article, the records of the American Medical association are quoted to the effect that twins are born in approximately one out of every eighty births; triplets occur once in 6 400 births, and quadruplets, once in 512,000 births. Quintuplets and sextuplets, the same article, says, are so rare as to form medical phenomena.

But the recent case of the Dionne family remains so much a matter of interest that the five baby girls, should they continue to live, will be subjected to exhibition at the Century of Progress.

THE VANDALS' INSTINCT.

ALONG the highways in parts of Missouri, the work of beautification has gone forward. Trees shrubbery, and flowers were planted. In all, thousand of plants, and hundreds of trees and shrubs were put out.

The chairman of the committee in charge of the work reports its greatest difficulty has been to prevent the theft of plants placed along the highway. Near Springfield, vandals made off with more than a hundred plants in a week's time.

It is not a new experience for those entrusted with the care of public property. Vandalism seems to be a recognized custom among otherwise respectable people. Buildings are defaced, parks despoiled, monuments mutilated for no very good reason at all, except there seems to be a destructive spirit toward public property. Vandalism is one of the meanest crimes in the calendar, because it is so petty, so utterly futile, so contemptuous of civic spirit and pride.

SCIENCE MEETS ART.

CAST aside all doubt as to the wisdom of science. For the learned of this world have developed "invisible paintings."

The earth is literally plastered with paintings. A few are worthy of display, but are too rare for most people to see. The rest serve to hide wallpaper cracks, to satisfy passions for indiscriminate color, or to delude amateur collectors.

Science has a way of coming to the rescue. Realizing that it might be dangerous, let alone illegal, to destroy unworthy paintings, the savants develop the invisible art.

Of course, these new paintings become visible under ultra violet rays, but the machines which produce the latter can be switched off more easily than the artists who swish paint in the face of starvation and insults.

A series of invisible murals has just been painted in the Benjamin Franklin institute at Philadelphia. That master of many sciences and arts would have written some very pungent remarks about the innovation.

Des Moines 40 per cent.
St Joe, 31 per cent.
Omaha 28 per cent
Sioux City, 26 per cent

QUESTION.
Harrisburg, Pa.

Suppose after all the efforts of men and nations to make peace war should come, will this not prove that peace is impossible?

ANSWER.

Not necessarily. It will prove that the fierce passions of the jungle are still untamed in men's souls. If disciplined, thughtful men and women of high intelligence should direct the lawful ways of justice there will be no need of armed conflict. Yet though it breaks loose again the convinced followers of Christ will not surrender to brute force. There will be no discharge from their obligations in the crusade they have undertaken.

They know that war to end war is a mockery, since it destroys more than it preserves. Man cannot forever remain half brute and half human. Ultimately he will either be all brute or all human. If his past sheds light upon his future, the ape and the tiger in him are doomed and the angel will become the predominant partner. Why then should advocates of peace retract or retreat because of passing failures or temporary setbacks? No godike cause ever trod a flowery path to victory and a truce that cost no sacrifice would probably become a hollow farce.

Men must be as habituated to peace as they are to strife and to love as they are to hate. The process involves the ameliorations of time and the renewed admonitions of experience. But ultimately right cannot fail unless God Himself is bankrupted. To doubt that right must win is disloyalty to Him, and to falter in its pursuit would be sin. Let us pray that no further wars darken our horizon. Should that be, however, the Lord will not lack His lightbearers to illuminate the darkness.

QUESTION.
Raleigh, N. C.

If you had your choice what would you select as your life work?

ANSWER.

The ministerial vocation. Had my earlier ambitions been gratified I should have met the fate described in the scriptures. "He gave them their desire but sent leanness into their souls." It is hard for one in his youth to understand that the wise man dwells peacefully in his appointed place. Take a concrete instance. Dr. James Martineau was a great thinker who could have figured in the highest circles of philosophy, yet he was content to deliver his profoundly reasoned discourse to a few divinity students.

The volumes he wrote have since been pondered by countless earnest and striving men and women. They are largely recasts of the lectures he prepared for a dozen theologues in a classroom. Such modest celebrities are more numerous than the world realizes. They keep it on the right track, solve its problems, avoid its disasters and make possible its achievements. People afflicted with the itch of publicity cannot understand why Einstein hides away, or obscure governmental administrators and social workers leave the praise to others who could not dispense with their services.

But so it is and always has been. Fame comes unsought to men of Darwin's magnitude, while the noisy competitors for it get nothing except notoriety as their consolation prize. Rural parishes, small colleges, poverty stricken theological seminaries and the rounds of the country parsons and doctors are the haunts of the best humans we can muster. Their toil bears fruit and will prosper when "the madding crowd's ignoble strife" is forgotten. If I perceive this it is because fifty years of public life have enforced on me the warning to put away lawless ambition. That is the sin which seduced the angels. The opportunity to serve one's fellows is God's richest grace for any man or woman. I am content to be an ambassador of God, although unworthy of that high calling.

QUESTION.
Buffalo, N. Y.

I understand that the orient is changing rapidly. How will this affect us?

ANSWER.

It should be for the good of all that the heavy incubus which has so long hampered half the world begins to lessen, and this is exactly what is taking place. Our grandchildren may agree with some shrewd present observers that the transformation of the eastern peoples was the chief result of the war of 1914-'18. Their outlook, predispositions and traditional habits are being rapidly modified. And first among the material causes of this amazing awakening is air transportation.

On New Year's Eve, of 1934 the crew of the Dutch air liner Pelikaan completed their flight from Amsterdam to Batavia, a distance of nearly nine thousand miles, in one hundred hours and forty minutes. Experts predict that with the development of night flying the time of normal passage from London to India will be reduced to three days. Japan has become air minded and China is on the way. Young Arabs and Persians qualify as pilots every year. An Egyptian woman finished first in the recent air race from Cairo to Alexandria and back.

New roads and railways gridiron the earth while aviation traverses the heavens. The motor car moving at ten times the speed of the camel is now used in the Syrian desert. One of the largest passenger omnibuses yet built runs between Damascus and Bagdad. The shades of the old magicians and story tellers who haunt these historic homes of legend and romance must feel themselves outdone by the applcatons of mechanical and scientific knowledge.

The once frozen Turk has thawed out, thrown away his fez, abolished the Caliphate and adopted European letters and customs, while his women walk unashamed with their faces unveiled. All these things mean an advancing civilization with increased demands for goods deemed essential for social intercourse. Marvelous as the past century was for discovery, the one now well begun promises to be still more marvelous for the unifying of human interests and pursuits.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

TENNIS IS GAME FOR YOUTH, GOLF FOR THE MIDDLEAGED.

For most of us, exercise is confined to tennis and golf. And in their respective fields they are perfect. They develop, besides the all-around work-out of all the muscles of the body, those mental attributes which are quite as important results of athletic endeavor as muscular strength, endurance, accuracy of eye and arm, and skill.

Dr Clendening

The question of endurance is largely a question of heart power. The ability to keep on moving—running or any form of violent exercise—is a matter of "wind." And as every athlete knows, wind can be developed. In fact, the principal aim of training is not to increase the strength of the muscles involved, but to increase wind.

Since muscles can work indefinitely if they have enough oxygen, and since the trick of getting them enough oxygen depends on the heart pumping enough blood charged with oxygen to them, the result of training is to increase the strength of the heart muscle and its ability to pump out more blood each minute without tiring.

The heart in its turn is nourished by blood vessels. And these vessels diminish in number and size from birth to old age. It is possible to inject these arteries with a paste which throws a shadow on the X-ray so that all the blood vessels of the heart can be seen as in a transparency, as shown in the accompanying illustration. The heart of youth is a thick meshwork of arteries. But the heart of a man of 50 shows great spaces where no vessels seem to go at all. They have been blocked up and absorbed.

For that reason tennis is the game for youth and golf the game for the middleaged. The sudden demands that the running, leaping and pounding of tennis make on the heart are too much for the scanty vessels of the middleaged. I used to be a very enthusiastic tennis player, but in the times I have tried it lately some inner voice has kept saying at about the third set, "The next is going to be your last set."

But golf makes no such imperative drafts on the heart. Even so, as time goes on it is not advisable for those past 50 to set out to show how many holes they can play. The "I played 36 holes today" business is all over for them.

THE JUDAS TREE.

Pink flowers adorn the Judas tree,
And mine is now in bloom.
Its flower-laden arms I see
Stretched just outside my room.

Its name betrays its charms, I think,
As Judas, Him betrayed
Surely such boughs of petaled pink
Were not for traitors made.
Yet it is said round such a limb
The fatal knot was tied
And Judas went to death with Him
A sorry suicide

A wooden cross the Master bore
Unto his field of doom.
But Judas followed, sick and sore,
Beneath a tree in bloom

How unfair we are! Tigers in the zoo have been caged long enough to reform, and nobody paroles them.

Selling ammunition machines to the Japs isn't new. Early American Shylocks sold Indians the guns used to shoot their neighbors.

There's one consolation. Every time you pay too much, you are equipping somebody to be a great philanthropist.

But the Japanese wouldn't be buying ship loads of scrap iron if they weren't preparing for a scrap.

Heaven probably thinks people are always hard up. It never hears from them except when they are.

Two things that make people decline a stick of gum are elegant manners and false teeth.

There can't be a revolution. Every time you catch a radical professor and give him responsibility, he goes conservative on you.

Oh, for the good old days when your note was good because the banker liked you.

But won't the era of abundance kill ambition? There's no fun in being rich if everybody else has plenty, too.

Now it's got so "hit and run" may refer to a driver, a batter or an Insull.

One reason why the modern daughter doesn't tell mother everything is because there isn't much you can tell a modern mother.

It isn't hard to borrow money to build a house. Just pretend you want it to buy an automobile.

Note on advertising: Paul Revere made the famous ride, but Longfellow made the ride famous.

Times are better. Only yesterday Dad moaned about the hole he was in; now he is jubilant if he gets in the hole in three strokes.

Alas! If the spot is lonely enough to be safe for petting, it is also safe for crime.

The Japs think their ruler a god. This makes them as funny as four other races you could mention.

Correct this sentence: "My brat is spoiled and rotten," said the mother, "and it's no fault of mine."

PEOPLE'S FORUM

(Forum communications to The Lincoln Star should be limited to 500 words. The letters to this department represent the individual views of the writers and may or may not express the views of this newspaper.)

Why Propaganda?

LINCOLN, Neb., June 6.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Why all the propaganda about disarming? It seems to be the main topic of discussion when a church convention is in session. If Christian men and women would win souls for Christ, when that is accomplished, disarmament would follow as truly as light follows the rise of the sun, and, without Christianity disarmament is impossible.

To disorganize our armies would put the criminal mob in control. Disarm the righteous and arm the crooks. Wars were fought before gun powder was invented by using spears, swords, axes, knives and other weapons. Therefore to sink ships, cut down guns and even to abandon all preparedness will not end wars.

The love of country, home and loved ones and all morality is being gradually undermined by malicious propaganda and when these are destroyed, Christianity is destroyed. Why do we not hear more about disarming Russia, a country that is armed more than any other nation? They teach hatred of God, parents and most all that is good. The devil and his imps from hell are in controling power in Russia and spreading their malicious ideas to every nation of the earth with its purpose to overthrow existing governments by violent force, lay in a sea of blood all those who do not submit, those who worship Christ, those who love their homes, those who love their children. Disarm with a great monster stalking the world. It is preposterous! God didn't disarm his angels when his throne was in danger. God didn't tell David to lay down the slingshot which he used to slay Goliath.

Know from whence comes this pacifism. Ask yourself in all candor is it logical? Is it the teachings of God or Satan? With our faces raised toward heaven let us thank God for America bought with the blood of Christian patriots, who were not afraid to die for right. When Satan gains physical control of the world the churches will be filled with grain as in Russia and those who lead their flocks therein to worship will have been given a violent ticket to the world beyond, and life on earth will be a hell of torment and terrorism.

A. F. KEARNS.

A Few Lessons.

Lincoln, Nebr., June 6

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I give some local lessons of "Obsolescence of Social Science." Recently some church men stressed the importance of rectitude, "love of neighbor," tolerance before young people. Amiable Then comes a discarded political partisan, full of vengeance, and preaches the degrading doctrine of prejudice, guile and insincerity, as of more consequence, thereby farther deleting the logic of the golden rule and deflecting the well intended advice of the preachers.

Despicable.

We also have another of the same kind of rejected political partisans, who having had some taste of the sweets of Washington society, and who supported every measure of the old regime, which brought on people's present distress, and who now avers that Nebraska needs him back in Washington to help by his continual opposition to any and all efforts that may be offered by President Roosevelt, solely on the ground of unconstitutionality. During his ten years in congress can he show by the record his efforts to curtail the growing menaces he now sees so vividly? How soon will these sciences become obsolete?

Burgess Bedtime Stories

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The Smiling Pool Philosopher

A true philosopher is he Who doth accept what'er may be.
—Old Mother Nature.

Grandfather Frog, the Bullfrog, is old and is accounted very wise by the others who live in the Smiling Pool. Age doesn't necessarily mean wisdom, but a lot of people seem to think it does. However, it usually does among the little people of the Green Forest, the Green Meadows, the Old Orchard and the Smiling Pool, for those who lack wisdom do not as a rule live long.

So perhaps it is not surprising that Grandfather Frog was looked up to as very wise and held in great respect by the smaller people, especially the other Frogs. So now that he was awake many hastened to pay their respects, but in doing so they were careful not to come too near. You see they not only respected his age but they respected that great mouth of his. It was whispered about that he had once swallowed another Frog almost as big as himself.

But one there was who paid him no respect. This was his cousin, Old Mr. Toad, who was quite as old if not older. Between these two there was no love lost. Perhaps each was a little jealous of the other. Every spring they resumed an old argument that began when they were both young and Old Mr. Toad left the Smiling Pool where he was born to go out into the Great World. Grandfather Frog had refused to go. He had said that the Smiling Pool was good enough for him and only the foolish would go out to face the dangers of the Great World.

"Chuga-rum! Chuga-rum!" said Grandfather Frog in that deep voice of his.

"So," said a voice, "you are alive after all." There a short distance away sat Old Mr. Toad.

"Chuga-rum! Why shouldn't I be alive?" retorted Grandfather Frog. "The surprising thing is that you are alive."

"And why shouldn't I be alive?" demanded Old Mr. Toad in his turn.

"Because any one without sense enough to stay where it is safe doesn't deserve to live long," retorted Grandfather Frog.

"Safe!" exclaimed Old Mr. Toad. "Safe! Do you call it safe here?" There is Longlegs the Heron looking for Frogs this very minute."

"I see him, but he doesn't see me," replied Grandfather Frog calmly.

"And only yesterday I saw Mr. Watersnake catch one of your children," said Old Mr. Toad.

"But he didn't catch me," retorted Grandfather Frog.

"And every day since I returned here I have seen two or three members of the Hawk family hanging around here," continued Old Mr. Toad.

There, a short distance away, sat Old Mr. Toad.

"I don't see any now," replied Grandfather Frog.

"And you call it safe here," continued Old Mr. Toad. "That merely goes to prove your ignorance. But what can one expect of one who never has been out in the Great world? And they call you wise! What do you know of life?"

"Enough to know when I am well off," retorted Grandfather Frog. "Enough to know that all things come to him who wait." He snapped up a foolish green fly that had failed to see him. "Enough to be satisfied with what comes my way. Enough to be contented and not worry about what I haven't, Chuga-rum! The trouble with the Great World is that there are too many people running about this way and that in it looking for things they think they want, but don't need never satisfied, always getting into trouble. If trouble comes to me why it comes, but you don't find me going out for it. If I don't get enough to eat today I will tomorrow, or if not tomorrow I will the next day. And when danger appears there is all the mud at the bottom of the Smiling Pool to bury myself in and stay until the danger has passed. Enough to eat, water wherein to keep cool, the safest of safe hiding places—what more can any one ask? What better has the Great World to offer than that? If you think so much of the Great World what do you come back here for every spring? Longlegs is moving this way. Look out that he doesn't get you for he won't find me."

With this Grandfather Frog dived and disappeared.

Commencement Activities Occupy People Of Crete

CRETE, Neb. — The Wagata Campfire girls began their annual camping trip Friday at the Boy Scout camp, with Miss Dorothy Darling as guardian. Misses Marifae Hawlett anad Marie Stastny are the counsellors. Phyllis Velte and Miss Howlett, both life savers, are in charge of the swimming; Miss craft and boating is supervised by Misses Darling, Howlett and Velte. Seventeen girls are in camp.

The Crete high school alumni entertained the graduating class at a reception Thursday evening in the high school gymnasium after the commencement exercises. Glenn Jelinek, alumni president, welcomed the 60 graduates and Donald Smith, senior class president gave the response. Dorlen Jones gave a group of readings. A feature of the evening was "The March of Classes," led by G. A. Gregory, the first graduate of the Crete schools, as well as the first superintendent. At the business meeting Thomas Aron was elected president, Miss Avis Collett vice president. Miss Dorothy Lothrop secretary and Donald Smith treasurer. Lght refreshments were served.

The Young People's society of the German Congregational church of Crete entertained the Friend church society Sunday afternoon at Horky park. Rev. J. E. Schatz, pastor of both the Friend and Crete churches, was in charge. Boating and swimming occupied the time prior to supper.

Complimentary Dinner.

Murder at MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

SYNOPSIS: A policeman and a stranger, the latter apparently a man who has tried to kill Pierre Dufresne, have been found murdered in Dufresne's house. Sergeant Harper at last has found a thread to go on—and it leads to Pierre Dufresne. Dufresne's butler has admitted that his master owned a revolver of the size used to kill the stranger. Now, in the presence of Harper's superior officers, the butler denies the statement.

Chapter 27.

THE SEARCH.

"Then what kind of a game—explain yourself, Andrews?"

"It was you, Mr. Harper, who told me that Mr. Dufresne had given you that information about the revolver,' Andrews answered patiently. "I did not feel that it was my business to contradict his statement I see now that it was just a little trick on your part and I withdraw what I said previously."

Harper was boiling, not only over the exposure of his ruse, so neatly and effectively checkmated, but over the collapse of his promising secret.

Pierre Dufresne clapped his old retainer on the shoulder "A good and faithful servant—" he intoned, laughing merrily at the detective's discomfiture

Harper glared angrily at the impassive Andrews "This is a serious matter I warn you. For the time being the police are in charge of this house Your duty as a citizen to uphold the law is greater than your duty to an employer."

"But you lied to me, sir," protested the gaunt old man, with a devastating simplicity that sent his master into a fresh peal of laughter

Harper turned to Dufresne "All right, sir, but that is not the whole story. Detective Lafferty saw this gun himself We know it was there"

"I repeat then, that I do not own such a weapon and I have never seen it nor handled it."

Harper bowed "We will accept that statement Mr Dufresne But we know the gun exists, that it is in this house, and with your permission we will search until we find it"

"You may search as thoroughly as you please, Sergeant '

"Lafferty, bring all the others here, I want everybody to stay in one room while the search is going on."

Dufresne carelessly selected a cigarette "And what do you expect to prove?" he drawled

"These cold-blooded murders were committed by some one in this house," Sergeant Harper snapped, "and I intend to get at the truth, no matter whom it involves"

The household assembled in the small drawing-room, a pleasant and many-windowed room on the main floor, adjoining the breakfast-room.

This enforced gathering was quiet enough on the surface but underneath it was seething and boiling with curiosity and excitement The Sergeant's brief and uncompromising assertion that the case had changed from an unexplained double homicide to an equally unexplained double murder had set the household by the ears.

One by one they denied any knowledge even of the existence of the revolver Harper sought. In the first flush of surprise they did not gather the implication that the murderer was not only alive but one of their number. That realization dawned on them a little later and placed an awkward restraint on the conversation.

Harper, Lafferty, and the two policemen conducted the search, having commanded the company of Mrs. Whitmore, not only because she had the keys to all the locked places in the house but also to witness that all household and individual property rights were respected Silent and sullen, her dark brows frowning, Mrs. Whitmore accompanied the officers

Four men, trained and experienced in such matters, can make short work of any room when the sole object in question is as heavy and bulky as a revolver, but there were many rooms and closets in the house and Harper's methods were painstaking and thorough He had set out with full confidence in the success of the search.

As their absensce lengthened, the waiting group began to split up along lines of natural gravitation Captain Macklin and Pierre Dufresne sat on a window-seat

Director Connors had been obliged to leave, owing to the press of other affairs, and he had left without giving any definite answer to Dufresne's request

The faithful Andrews and the stout, good-natured John Whitmore stood in a corner and talked together in low tones There was a sardonic glitter in the old butler's eyes and a determined jut of the jaws, for he was still feeling elated over the neat way he had tripped up the detective's attempt to trap his master The placid Whitmore, however, was lost and bewildered at the turn affairs had taken.

Young Donaghy, spick and span in his tailored uniform, stood at one of the windows, apart from the others Busy with his thoughts, he looked out steadily and unseeingly as if absorbed by a mental puzzle.

Richard Croyden, pensive and subdued, idly ran his sensitive fingers up and down the keyboard of the piano, turned sideways across a corner of the room. He fingered melancholy little snatches of melody, softly, dreamily, his thoughts busy elsewhere The first muted chords had drawn glances of wonder and disapproval at the intruding of the sound of music at such a time By the side of the piano, seated in an easy chair, was Aline Croyden, smoking a cigarette and frowning at the swinging toe of her slipper

The minutes dragged by interminably to make a quarter-hour the quarter became a half, the half lengthened to a full hour, and the relentless cycle started on its second lap

Conversation succumbed to the strain and became forced and desultory as impatience gnawed at every one Even Dufresne's indignation was reduced to intermittent flashes.

One hour and a half Harper and his men expended on the search and when he returned to the drawing-room no one could tell from his expression whether or not they had been successful. But one glance at Mrs. Whitmore's disdainful air of triumph told them that the much-sought weapon had not yielded the secret of its hiding-place.

Harper's bitter disappointment was betrayed only by his grim tone as he stood before Pierre Dufresne "I have not found the gun but I am still convinced hat it is concealed here in the house Since no one has left, it can hardly be otherwise."

Dufresne made a gesture of dismissal to the servants, who promptly filed out, that they might talk over this astounding affair more unreservedly in their own quarters Aline Croyden and her husband left quietly, tactfully leaving the field clear for the discussion that must follow.

"I hope you did not overlook Mrs Dufresne's room, Harper?" Dufresne asked insolently

"No, indeed, I looked there very thoroughly," the detective answered

"And what absurdity do you purpose next? Please don't worry about any inconvenience to my family or myself I am merely the owner of this property" Dufresne was being purposely insulting

"I have given orders that no one is to leave this house without being searched We do not intend to have this revolver carried away. Later we may search for it again, but for the present I shall work along other lines that may bring the same result."

"Going out to study the snow again, I suppose? Or possibly to look for more places where fingerprints should be, but are not—Bah, you have no case, Harper, and you know it."

Dufresne's tones were obviously intended to be baiting, and this thought acted as a counter-irritant to the detective's natural chagrin "Do you think so?" was his cool reply. "We've just about finished with our study of the material facts. Now we take up the characters and personalities involved I'll endeavor to follow the good advice you gave me at our first meeting, Mr Dufresne, and take nothing for granted"

Eyes flashing, lips curling angrily, Pierre Dufresne turned his back on the detective and walked out of the room Captain Macklin took up his hat and overcoat "Stay on the job, Harper, but you'd better work fast. Dufresne is a bad man to cross and he carries plenty of weight in certain quarters. He'll have your scalp if he can

"I'll risk that, Captain I think he's so damned sure that I can't make a case out of it that he'll let me carry on, just to show me up."

After Captain Macklin had gone, Harper called Lafferty, and they proceeded to search the room in which the Dufresne household had waited Lafferty asked, "Do you think any of that crowd would have nerve enough to keep that gun hidden on themselves? Perhaps we should have made a personal search"

Harper shook his head "The gun would be too bulky and the risk foolish. No, the thing was hidden, and hidden well We'll have to keep thinking about it"

Man Charged With Murder Auburn Man Taken To Missouri

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., June 8—(AP)—Robert Graves, Carter Lake, Ia., laborer, charged with first degree murder in the death of Earl Kyriss of Auburn, Neb., was taken to Rockport, Mo. Thursday after a habeas corpus action was dismissed at his request by District Judge Wheeler. Preliminary hearing for Graves will be held Tuesday at Rockport. Kyriss died as the result of injuries said to have been received when he was beaten in a fight on the Missouri river bottoms near Rockport.

RAINS IMPROVE CROP PROSPECTS

Corn and Pastures Are Aided in Northeast Nebraska.

Recent rains in northeastern Nebraska have improved the prospects for the 1934 corn crop and helped pasture conditions, Prof. H. J. Gramlich of the University of Nebraska college of agriculture said Friday upon his return from South Dakota where he along with W. H Brokaw, state AAA administrator, and Dean W W Burr conferred with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

"Pasture conditions, however, are not the best in the world as before the rains they were gnawed to the ground," Gramlich said. "Farmers in that area now though are putting in sudan grass which will give considerable pasturage if weather conditions continue favorable The early seeding of sudan is uneven. Recent rains will give them an opportunity to put in more forage crops also"

Corn Spotted.

The corn in the northeastern area is very spotted Some fields look very good while fields in the same neighborhood are very poor All fields are clean, Gramlich said The late plowed ground appears to be at a disadvantage

No indication as to the possible drouth relief which will be offered to farmers in the state and the northeastern area was forthcoming from the Nebraska delegation as they arrived back after their two-day trip Friday morning Prof. Gramlich was to confer with A E Anderson state and federal statistician upon the effects of recent rains Out in the state though it is understood that agricultural agents have their county organizations set up for any relief work which may come on later

Reserve Feed Short.

The reserve feed in the northeastern sector it was said, is extremely short and there is virtually no old feed available Livestock are being grazed along the roadsides and on small grain which has but little chance of making any crop "The cattle look to be reasonably strong," Gramlich said, "but without additional rains a critical situation may develop"

While in South Dakota, the Nebraska delegation visited the heart of the drouth in that state. General rains during the past few days there have helped the situation a great deal, they said. The government's cattle buying program now is operating in 35 counties in that state and 20 per cent of the cattle are being condemned. The Nebraskans learned of the procedure of cattle buying there so if such a plan is put into operation here they will be ready to act immediately.

The jury deliberated for six hours before returning its verdict

FRANKLY...I WANT A Schoolgirl Complexion ALL OVER ...AND HERE'S WHY I RELY ON PALMOLIVE!

After all, who should know more about complexion care than a beauty expert? And when 20,000 of these experts say there's nothing like Palmolive for keeping a girl's skin fresh and young and lovely . . . why, I believe it!

I have no use for beauty claims that have no reason why! Palmolive tells me exactly why it's better for my skin . . . because it's made from olive and palm oils, scientifically blended. Just knowing that gives me a lot of confidence.

It's wonderful, the difference Palmolive has made in my skin! Twice each day I work that rich, velvety lather into my pores, rinse with warm water, then cold. And Palmolive baths keep all my skin soft, smooth and lovely!

It cleanses so deeply .. keeps complexions so lovely

Farm Women's Exchange

The Rose of Sharon quilt block pattern is one that was used by mothers of brides for many years of early history. This pattern is free to persons desiring it, if a three cent, stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. While you can obtain this pattern free of cost, we suggest that you write for it even though you add it, at this time, to your quilt pattern collection. Address Mrs. Clara Bell Graves, editor, The Lincoln Star Exchange, 905 North Fifth St., Springfield, Ill.

June is not only the month of roses; it is the month of gladness and graduation. It should be a happy month. However, to many a boy and girl, to many a young man and woman, it is a month of anxiety. The last days of a school term oftentimes are filled with anxious moments as to whether "all is well with us." It seems to be the duty of us older people to understand the problems of youth, to sympathize with them, to make their home tasks as light as possible during these last days of school and to help by our own experience of the past, to lighten their burdens. Youth does have its troubles.

As I listened, recently, to the guest speaker at a meeting of university women, I wished that everyone interested in our young people and in the future of our schools, could have heard the address. In the picturesque style of this southern teacher, using colorful words and phrases, he painted for us a picture of the schools of tomorrow. Like Rembrandt's Nightwatch, it had its shadows.

Summer Sandwiches.

One of the readers writes: I am looking for a list of different summer sandwiches, through your column. Therefore, we are offering, by mimeographed sheets, summer salads that are tempting and cooling when served cold and crispy. These sheets are free for a three cent, stamped, addressed envelope.

Piquante Salad.

Use six tomatoes, one package cream cheese, one teaspoon chopped, green pepper, one-half teaspoon finely chopped onion. Put tomatoes into boiling water for a moment to loosen skins. Peel and chill thoroughly. Cut in halves. Mash cheese to a paste with mayonnaise dressing and mix with green pepper and onion. Put cheese mixture between halves of tomatoes, sandwich fashion, and put sprigs of parsley into tops. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves and serve with dressing.

Vegetable Dressing.

You have a foundation French dressing. Add to this two tablespoons chopped parsley, two teaspoons chopped onion, one hard cooked egg, chopped, one-fourth chopped, cooked beets, well drained.

Thousand Island.

Mayonnaise dressing with the addition of one-fourth cup chili sauce, two tablespoons chopped, green pepper and two tablespoons chopped, stuffed olives, is delicious.

Announcement Toast.

Serve tomato juice cocktails, for first course, at an announcement luncheon. When guests lift glasses to drink, someone will discover that under her glass is a small, red cardboard heart on which are tiny snapshots of the engaged couple. Under the snapshot are the words, "Please drink the first toast to us."

If the heels of your shoes are too high, take off one-fourth inch of leather, add rubber heels and you will walk in comfort. More than one-fourth inch might turn up toes.

Cooking Jams.

When cooking anything that requires a long period, such as jams and butters, put a small amount of ashes on top of stove under kettle and contents will not stick so quickly to kettle. One of the readers does this during canning season and says the method is a success.

A short piece of old garden hose makes an excellent rug beater at house cleaning time, writes one of our readers.

Remodelled Coat.

Since the word comes that some fall coats will have capes, our readers' suggestions are of especial interest. She writes, "Recently the appearance of a coat was much improved by the addition of a pleated cape and deep, pointed cuffs, reaching to the elbow. The cuffs were cut long enough to make up for this shortening of the sleeve. A bias piece of goods was cut two and one-half inches wide. This was doubled and the two edges basted around the top of cuffs, then stitched and pressed. The cuff was slipped over sleeve and fastened in place by hand. A cape and military collar made the coat look like new."

Diseased Roses.

Mildew and black spot are the two most serious disease that attack the foliage. There also are several leaf eating insects. Control them all by dusting with nine parts dusting sulphur (not flowers of sulphur), and one part powdered lead arsenate to which has been added one part powdered tobacco. This should be done every two to three weeks from the time the foliage appears until freezing weather. Spraying with bordeaux mixture and lead arsenate, also, is effective. Green lice on buds and on tips of growing shoots may be destroyed by spraying with a solution of nicotine. However, an authority suggests that we try the sulphur-arsenate-tobacco dust for lice also.

IN THE MAIL

Cherry Upside Down.

Two cups of unsweetened cherries, one-half cup sugar, one and one-half tablespoons cornstarch, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Add cherry juice to make one cup liquid. Put into sauce pan and cook five minutes. Butter an 8x11 inch pan and cover bottom with cherries. Pour syrup over cherries. To make batter, use one egg, one cup sugar, one cup milk, two tablespoons butter, one and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon vanilla, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Cream butter and sugar, add beaten egg, sift flour, add alternately with milk. Pour over cherries and bake. Invert on platter and serve hot or cold with whipped cream.—MRS. C. W. MILLER, R. R. 1, Roca, Neb.

Keeping Flowers.

If you dip the stems of fresh flowers into boiling water before putting them into a vase of cold water, you will find that they will keep longer than otherwise.—MRS. GEORGE WITCOPSKI, Crab Orchard, Neb., R. R. 2.

Bride's Gift.

A nice gift and a handy one is cards with pads and pencils and a pencil attached for putting down little things that the bride will want to remember. The pads can be purchased in a variety of colors.—MRS. MARY STENDER, Mason City, Neb., Box 104.

Crocheted Gift.

For a little tuck-in gift for the bride, I suggest a pair of crochet hot pan holders in square shape or six or eight of them made in corner shape. These can be made either of white carpet warp or of beautiful colored knitting cotton.—MRS. J. H. SMITH, Box 986, Wahoo, Neb.

Leave Saturday For National 4-H Meet

Four Nebraska Club Champions Will Visit Fair, Niagara Falls, Philadelphia Enroute.

Nebraska's 4-H club champions for the past year leave Saturday for the national club camp which opens in Washington, D. C., Thursday, it was announced at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture Friday. Those in the delegation, selected because of their outstanding club records, include Ruby Kayser, Walton; Frances Roberts, Fairmont; John Bengston, Bradish; and Norman Weitkamp, Blair.

Miss Allegra Wilkens, assistant state 4-H leader at the agricultural college, is to accompany the delegation to the camp which will be attended by similar champions from every state in the union. The five Nebraskans will leave Omaha Saturday night for Chicago, where they will stay over one day. Tuesday they are to be at Niagara Falls and in Philadelphia Wednesday. Their schedule carries them to the capital Wednesday night.

Throughout the week, June 14-21, the champion rural boys and girls are to enjoy recreational and educational programs in Washington. A trip to the white house where they will be greeted by President Roosevelt is one of the highlights on the program. National extension workers have charge of the camp.

All of the four Nebraskans have outstanding records in 4-H work. They have won major prizes in exhibition, demonstration and judging competition. In addition they have served as local leaders as well as club members in their respective communities.

Drying Lakes Cause Shortage Of Water In Municipal Parks

City park department officials are fighting a water shortage. Lakes in all parts of the city are dry. There is not enough water at Pioneers park, and the wallows in the buffalo pastures are dry, with the result that the buffaloes are fighting flies.

Oak creek cannot supply enough to fill all of the lakes there, so those on the south side of the SYA highway, have gone dry.

The dam in Haines branch at Pioneers park has kept the water there at a good height, but the moisture cannot be used for watering the golf course because of salt. As a result the grass greens on the west side have been burned, notwithstanding the pumps have been going at full capacity on the well at the northwest corner of the park.

The animals have not suffered for want of drinking water.

Minerva's Mail

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Insight and Foresight.

Successful hospitality is not dependent upon the amount of money spent and certainly not upon the ostentation of display for visiting friends. Civic responsibility should add to the richness of home life, rather than take away from it, and should never be given as an excuse for neglecting the children or other home duties.

"Mrs. R. S." writes that she was very active in social and civic life until the children came. The responsibilities of her home plus shortage of finances have forced her to give up all outside life, she says, until now, at thirty-two, she is a back number and mighty discontented with her lot.

She might well be discontented or at least disconcerted with herself. But she places the blame on the circumstances of her life. I am not recommending that she waste time to chide even herself, but if any reproach be given, it should be for her own lack of both insight and foresight.

The gift for gracious hospitality can be developed and practiced, no matter how cramped the financial standing may be. The most successful hostesses I know are those who entertain in the most simple fashion, who even invite their friends to bring in their own contributions toward the dinner, but who never fail to make the home so radiant with good cheer and warmth of cordial friendship that it is a privilege to be there.

Hospitality is based upon a genuine desire to share of what you have with your friends, and how little you have need be no handicap.

A sense of community responsibility should mean the expansion of the home. Certainly I know women who neglect husbands, home and children to serve on committees, make speeches and organize campaigns. But that is because they are extremists and possibly exhibitionists and because it is their nature to put self first. The balanced wife and mother plays an intelligent part in school, club and civic affairs, and thus enriches not only her own life but that of her family.

Fight For Rights.

Dear Minerva: I am an only child, and am now seventeen years old. I have never been allowed to make my own decisions and father and mother still treat me as if I were a baby. They must choose my clothes for me, my means of recreation, my studies and even my friends. I have never been allowed to do as the others do. Mother always indicates that I should consider myself superior to others. Why, I cannot imagine. The result is that I feel inferior. When I am out with friends my own age, I feel strange and different and am extremely nervous and self conscious. I don't know how much of this other people notice. Girl friends have told me they thought I was snobbish until they knew me.

I want to have friends and be just like others, but I don't know what to do about it. The simplest thing that I suggest at home brings on endless family conferences as if it were momentous until I'm getting so I just drift along without expressing an opinion. I have had considerable musical training as my folks are ambitious for me to be a musician. Right now some young people want me to join them in an orchestra. We would practice together and maybe get some engagements to play for dances. I spoke to mother and she said it would be common. I'm very eager to do it, but I haven't the stamina to go through the family disagreements to try to get my way. I'm just a mess and I know it and I don't know what to do about it.—TESS.

A. It's socializing that you need and socializing you must get. Don't give up so easily. Your parents are doubtless difficult. But most young people have difficulties of some sort to overcome. Don't magnify yours so dramatically and brood over them so intensely. Meet your problems one at a time. Go after this orchestra opportunity with a determination to win out. It would be a splendid thing for you. This you know. So fight for your rights. Let your parents know that you are growing up and have ideas of your own. They apparently haven't realized that you are past the baby stage. Don't be impatient and nervous, but determined and forceful.

Answered Briefly.

E. and E.: Your leter does not seem to warrant a personal answer, as I can give you my opinion equally well in this manner. The fact that the girl is your senior should present no handicap. The other matter you menton may or may not be serious. I'd say that it is just as serious as it seems to be in your mind. If you are not willing to face whatever might transpire in the future, then I'd say you are not deeply in love.

Mrs. M. K.: I certainly do not believe in pushing a child. Your girl is making grades that are above the average, yet you are discontented because she is not making the brilliant record which her sister made at that age. I think such a comparson is both unfair and unwise. The child's temperament is obviously different. She is not competitive or aggressive as her sister was, but that does not mean that she will not get quite as much out of her school work in her own way. You will only hold her back if you try to prod her into duplicating her sister's special achievements. Let her live her own life in her individual way.

Mrs. Dionne Anxious To Be Up and Mother Her Ten Youngsters

CORBEIL, Ont., June 8—(AP)—Mrs. Ovila Dionne, who at the age of 24 has brought eleven children into the world, ten of whom are living, fretted in bed today, anxious to be up and mother her quintuplets and their five elder brothers and sisters.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe had promised her she could get up for a while yesterday. But he changed his mind when he found her recovery was not as rapid as he had hoped.

Mrs. Dionne was near death when the quintuplets were born eleven days ago and contracted nephritis.

Never before has Mrs. Dionne stayed in bed longer than three days after childbirth.

Fright went through the household, which includes five nurses, when Yvonne, the heavyweight of the babies at 38¾ ounces, sneezed.

When last weighed the quintuplets had gained an average of about three-fourths of an ounce from the previous day, which was hailed as an encouraging sign. Otherwise their condition was described as unchanged.

The five tiny sisters, nestled in incubators, have recovered from an attack of jaundice.

The fate of Waldemaras, former dictator of the nation, rests with Lithuanian authorities.

BANKRUPTCY ACT RELIEF SOUGHT

Five Large Corporations File Applications to Reorganize.

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—A rush to benefit by provisions of the new bankruptcy law followed closely President Roosevelt's signing of the corporate bankruptcy act amending the national bankruptcy law.

One large corporation, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, sought permission to reorganize in a petition filed in Federal court here shortly before the president signed the measure yesterday.

In rapid succession applications also were filed by United Cigar Stores of America, Paramount-Publix corporation, Roxy Theaters corporation, and Associated Telephone Utilities Co.

The corporate bankruptcy act is designed to relieve the financial troubles of thousands of corporations. The act will permit reorganization with the consent of a majority of the creditors, under guidance of the courts. It will allow financial compromises in many instances where the majority creditors have agreed but were balked by minorities.

The act also is intended to obviate long drawn out and expensive receiverships and to bar monopolies by professional receivers.

In all the applications filed yesterday, permission was sought to reorganize under a court approved plan to which a majority of the holders of claims have agreed.

Time For Payment Of Corn-Hog Benefits Draws Nearer

COUNTY GROUPS BUSY ON FINAL CONTRACT WORK

Most Counties Finish Wheat Compliance Checking.

The time of getting benefit payments under the federal corn-hog adjustment program drew nearer for Nebraska farmers this week as county allotment committees throughout the state began their final piece of work in getting contracts ready for shipment to Washington. Filing of compliance on the wheat program also was getting well underway. The second payment hinges on this latter procedure.

Agricultural agents and allotment committees were busy in every county getting their individual contracts straightened out this week. In most cases they are working over-time in an effort to speed up the program. Quotas reached most of the counties early this week and the allotment groups lost no time in getting busy on them.

Most of the counties in the state were waiting for their quotas when they arrived back from the state board of review. As soon as county adjustments are made the contracts will be typed off and contracts offered to growers for final signature. Some early payment contracts, however, will probably go to Washington soon.

In the wheat program, most counties have finished their local work of getting compliance. The re-check started this week in many counties and some compliance certificates are expected in Lincoln within the next few days from outstate. If correct, they will be immediately forwarded to Washington for payment. No one county will have to wait on other counties in getting their work completed. The announcement that the second payment will be increased from eight to ten cents, less local administrative costs, will materially benefit Nebraska farmers, officials at the college of agriculture point out.

"Becky" Makes New Record In Fat Production

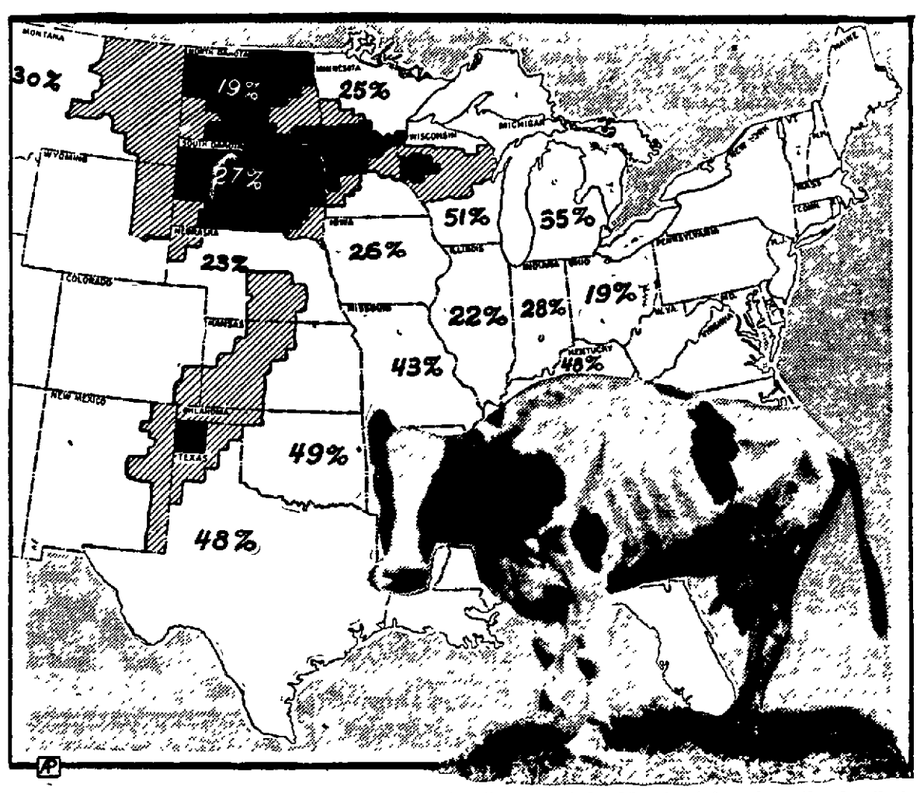
NORTH PLATTE, June 8—It is high time someone said something about Becky, reliable old girl that she is. Becky, a comparative youngster, has effected the achievement ment unique. She has broken the Nebraska production records for Junior 4-year-olds by 2,100 pounds of milk and 85 pounds of fat.

Now the secret is out. "Becky"—Miss NP Becky Bleske Piebe Ormsby to you—is a Holstein cow at the university experiment station here who in 365 days produced 26,091.2 pounds of milk and 936.3 pounds of fat with an average test of 3.6 per cent.

A fine type of cow weighing about 1,700 pounds, Becky is no prude about diet. Nothing in fact matters less to her and during her last lactation period she consumed 6,528 pounds of grain, 10,960 pounds of corn silage, and 1460 pounds of dried beet pulp to say nothing of quantities of alfalfa hay on end to which she had free access. Milk produced during her last period was worth $970. The feed cost $200. Well, that's Becky's big trouble she's so money-minded.

HAYES CENTER, Neb.— Three checks totaling $118.60 for wheat growers have been received here this week.

Where Dry Spell Is Most Serious



The figures show the percentage of normal rainfall averaged for May in states where the drouth is most serious. All except Wisconsin had less than half the normal precipitation. The areas in black have been designated as emergency drouth counties; those shaded, as secondary drouth counties. That cattle are severe sufferers from the drouth is evidenced by this cow which was a high grade dairy animal until its pasture dried up.

LEAVE SOON FOR 4-H CONFERENCE

Four Nebraskans Will Attend National Meeting.

Nebraska's four representatives of the 17,000 4-H club members in the state will be leaving soon for the national 4-H club camp in Washington, D. C. It will be held from June 15 to 20. Representatives are Frances' Roberts, Geneva; Ruby Kayser, Bennet; Norman Weitkamp, Nickerson; and John Bengston, Bradish.

These four have completed 47 club projects during the last seven years. Miss Roberts has "canned more fruits and vegetables than any other Nebraska club girl," according to L. I. Frisbie, state leader of 4-H club work. Miss Kayser led a clothing club for five years, a canning club three years, and a cooking club one year. Weitkamp, now a student at Midland college, and Bengston, now a University of Nebraska student, both were prominent in 4-H club work and have won state and national honors.

At Washington, information received here indicates, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will be feature speakers at the national camp. Methods of keeping the interests of rural youth close to home will be discussed at daily conferences. Club representatives will sleep in tents pitched on the mall near National Museum in Washington.

Establish Division In Washington To Hunt For Pests To Fight Pests

WASHINGTON, June 8—A new division has been established in the department of agriculture's bureau of entomology here and its solemn duty is to work diligently at importing parasites and predators into the United States.

Because modern transportation and refrigeration methods have made practical the bringing of insects and parasites from long distances the division hopes to accomplish much. Its personnel will go into all parts of the world to search out natural enemies of crop insect pests which have been introduced accidentally into the United States from abroad.

The theory on which the division operates is that these parasites and predators help maintain a balance of nature. Even as far back as 1889, for instance, a little beetle brought in from Australia rescued the citrus fruit industry from the cushion scale, also a native of Australia.

These "bug explorers" will be concerned with insect enemies of all American crop pests. In France they will search primarily for enemies of the corn borer, alfalfa weevil, and Hessian fly.

HAYSEED AND HAYWIRE

By GEORGE ROUND

TAKE it from Mary Mantor of Newton, 4-H club calves don't always see the right color. At least Mable Mattison, 1934 state champion club news reporter, reported that Mary's calf didn't mind the convential "red" color, but when his mistress appeared in his pen wearing a yellow sweater, things began to happen. After seeing that the animal didn't approve of the yellow color, Mary pulled the sweater off rapidly and flung it to the ground. The steer angrily, Miss Mattison said in her story, tore the article to shreds. As punishment for his misbehavior, Mr. Calf fasted for 24 hours.

The drouth is the subject on everyone's lips out in the state now. One hears interesting tales about the '94 disaster from old-timers. Some say the present situation is the same. Others disagree. Mrs. J. T. Graham, master homemaker in Dakota county, believes though that there was more sub-soil moisture in the '94 drouth.

Then a hitch-hiker riding from Ord to Lincoln with me this week held a different version of the whole matter. Things are much harder on farms now than then, he said. In the '94 drouth, people had only a few head of livestock, I was told. A trip to town in the buggy cost nothing and there was enough old feed on hand for the stock, so he said. Today farmers are faced with the task of taking care of hundreds of head of livestock instead of two or three—and there is practically no old feed available.

Victor Rediger, Milford, found his atlas sorgo coming up four days after planting. He used about 10 pounds to the acre. A great increased acreage of this crop is being planted throughout the state this year. . . . Many farmers will probably be planting a little sudan soon, if sufficient rainfall comes. . . . The federal cattle buying program may start in Nebraska soon. Farmers now though probably would not sell as they are living in hopes of sufficient rainfall to allow them to grow enough feed to keep their animals. . . . Cutting of wheat for hay started in many sections of the country this week—that is where it is good enough for such purposes.

4-H Judging Days Begin Here Monday

Judging days for Nebraska 4-H club members start at the agricultural college here Monday. Rural boys and girls from several eastern Nebraska counties will be here to practice judging livestock, clothing and canning products in preparation for the annual state fair contests this fall. Several hundred probably will be here.

NEXT THURSDAY IS POULTRY DAY

Program For Annual Field Event Is Completed.

Poultrymen from all sections of Nebraska are expected to gather at the college of agriculture Thursday, June 14, for their annual poultry field day program. The program was announced today. Results of recent experiments conducted at the college together with demonstrations and talks are included on the day's events.

Prof. H. E. Alder of the poultry department is to start the session off with a talk on distinguishing the sex of chicks. Mrs. Clara G. Snyder of the institute of American poultry industries in Chicago, will discuss the kind of eggs consumers today demand. Prof. H. C. Filley, chairman of the rural economics department, will point out the poultry and egg prospects for the coming year.

One of the features of the day's program will be the appearance of W. G. Lewis, Lincoln hatcheryman, who will speak about the hatchery code and the poultry industry. He is expected to point out fallacies in the code while W. O. WASH-DAY TROUBLES?

They're a joke when I'm on the job
HA HA HA HA
Sure they're a joke. My magic makes a "gray" wash impossible. . . . White cottons and linens under my care are made snowy-white, while color-fast cottons and linens are brightened. Also, I make 'em stain-free and sanitary, for as I cleanse I disinfect—on added safeguard to health. I whisk out ordinary stains in the regular laundering process, and in slightly stronger solution I remove stubborn stains, mildew and scorched spots.
Mine is concentrated strength—that's why I'm economical. Also I'm pure, safe and dependable. Ask your grocer for me. Be sure of my name. . . . There is only one

Frolich Suggests Seed Crops To Plant For Emergency Purposes

With the normal growing season greatly reduced for the growing of corn and other crops by the drouth, Nebraska farmers now are facing the problem of selecting crops and varieties which they can still plant and secure a reasonable amount of feed from, in the advent of normal rainfall.

A. L. Frolik, agronomy instructor at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture, points to the use of hay sorghum, sudan grass, millet and fall rye as some measures of relief. Sorghums, he says, offer one of the best possibilities for haying purposes. Only the early varieties, however, can possibly mature althouh the later types can be used to produce at least some feed if seed of the former is not available. Early black amber, red amber, early orange and early sumac offer the best possibilities.

Planting Method.

Many Nebraska farmers have or are planting atlas sorgo as a feed crop. Frolik recommends seeding with a grain drill, since a little less seed is required and better germination and distribution are possible than by broadcasting. Sorghums may be planted in cultivated rows but the yield is somewhat less and the hay will be more coarse and less palatable. Sixty to seventy pounds of seed per acre should be drilled in eastern Nebraska and 40 to 45 pounds is the rate recommended for the western section.

"Sudan grass planted during the month of June if moisture becomes available and in areas where chinch bugs are not too severe would provide a lot of late summer pasture or hay," Frolik says. "It would make a rapid growth and in 6 weeks after planting begin to furnish an abundance of feed. It has a carrying capacity of one to three head of cattle per acre. It is best to drill or broadcast the seed, 25 to 30 pounds per acre. An ordinary grain drill set to sow 2 pecks of wheat per acre will plant about 20 pounds of sudan grass seed."

Millet Is Rapid.

Millet also offers some possibilities for Nebraska farmers. The crop will mature in the shortest period of time of any annual forage crop. Seventy to eight days are enough even under materially unfavorable conditions. There are two principle types of millets, those used for hay and those suitable for grain purposes. The seed may be drilled or broadcasted at the rate of 25 to 30 pounds in eastern Nebraska and 15 to 20 pounds in the western territory.

Fall rye is another crop mentioned by Frolik as one which will furnish a lot of fall and even winter pasture, especially if rains come this fall. This is sometimes planted early in August and provides feed during October and November and again in the spring. Experimental tests have shown that rye pasture is an excellent feed both in nutritive value and palatibility.

There is but a small chance, the agronomist says, for legumes planted now to produce much this year. Seeding of alfalfa, sweet clover or red clover now would probably result in failures. However, they are planted during August in the eastern one-third of the state if moisture is available. No fall seed though should be expected.

About the only legume which could still furnish some hay or pasture and which could be seeded during June is soybeans. Soybeans offer a possibility, especially in southeastern Nebraska.

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter:

"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it.

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."—Mrs. Louise Johnson, 1433 Forest Street, Denver, Colorado.

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Society Rule For Week End Is Reversed

Country Club Ladies' Open Golf Winners Are Announced.

TIME was when society was quiet all week long and splurged at the week end —now it splurges all week long and the week ends are unusually quiet.

There will be dinner and dancing at Eastridge Country club Saturday evening, but the Lincoln Country club will be dark so far as any special activity is concerned.

AT THE LINCOLN Country club today was the luncheon for which Mrs. Vance Traphagen and Mrs. W. I. Rotton were hostesses, honoring Mrs. James Sine of Los Angeles, and Miss Charlotte Ward of Urbana, Ill. Tables were placed for bridge following luncheon.

FUNNY THINGS do happen at country clubs—out at the one in the south part of town Thursday, there was a group of five little girls at one table. The attraictive and doting grandmother of two of the small young things went by the table and noticed that one of her granddaughters was not eating her salad. Upon inquiry the grandmother was told that the salad was not eaten because it tasted like gin.

"How does she know what gin tastes like?" asked an acquaintance of the d. g. m., when she heard the story.

"That's what I wanted to know," the grandmother replied, "but I was afraid to ask her for fear she might tell me."

AND FUNNY THINGS do happen in hotel lobbies—Under a lamp and practically sitting straight up in his chair in the entrance lobby of Hotel Cornhusker Thursday evening — or perhaps we should say, Thursday-going-on-Friday, was one of the permanent guests, the "well known bachelor variety," sound asleep. Needless to say he woke up to quite an audience—" veddy, veddy fuddy," as Winchell would say.

THERE WAS MUCH ah-ing and oh-ing at the Lincoln Country club Thursday afternoon, when the winners of the various events of the ladies' open golf day, were announced.

Mrs. Anna Elliott of the Lincoln Country club was the winner of the low gross on nine holes, and Mrs. Carl Rohman, with an 38, was low for eighteen holes. Mrs. Sidney Gordon of the Omaha Field club was low for the out of town guests.

Mrs. O. V. McCracken with an 81 was low putter on eighteen holes, and Miss Margaret Anderson had, low net for the Lincoln players.

In a secret event of which no one seems to know anything, Mrs. O. H. Magee was the winner, and Miss Gertrude Krausmick won a special prize.

In the nearest pin on number 5, Mrs. F. M. Andrus was the winner, while Mrs. John Oeschger and Mrs. J. L. Hickman tied for the fewest putts on nine holes. Miss Janet Lau made the longest drive on number 8, and Mrs. George Westphal had the best score for the two most difficult holes—a par of 5 on number 8, and a birdie 5 on number 17.

ON THE ROOF GARDEN at the University club Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dunn have arranged for an evening of bridge for the members of their club. The group will meet for dessert and coffee, after which tables will be placed for cards.

MISS BETTY ANN SAIN WEDS WILLIAM KUNTER.

Before an altar in the cool green and white of summer tones, Miss Betty Ann Sain took her marriage vows with William O. Kunter of Idaho Falls, Ida., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kunter of Ririe, Ida., at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Sain, 1711 D street, Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. For the reading of the lines by the Rev Dr. Walter Aitken of St. Paul M. E. church, the bridal party stood before an arch banked with the greenery of palms and ferns, with the floor candelabra of cathedral tapers on either side. One hundred guests were present for the marriage.

With the assembling of the guests, Miss Aleen Neely, with Mrs. Arthur Perry accompanying her, sang "O Promise Me" and "God Make Thee Mine." The processional entered to the Lohengrin bridal music, played by Mrs. Perry.

Holly Ayvonne Peters, small niece of the bride, entered first and joined Ronald Featherstone, jr., of Houston, Tex., who had lighted the tapers, to mark the bridal aisle. The little girl wore an empire frock of yellow organdy, with the very long skirt, made bouffant with three tiers of ruffling at the floor line, and a very short waist. Her sash of pale green ended in a large bow with long, wide streamers. With it, she had a semi-crowned bonnet with a tiara brim of the yellow organdy, with the ribbons crossing the back and tying on one side. Holly carried a basket of pink and blue blossoms.

The bride's sster, Mrs. Lloyd E. Peters, wearing a princess gown of powder blue sheer, acted as matron of honor. A Victorian note was created through the cascade of diagonal ruffles falling to the floor on either side of a back panel and forming a train there, the ruffling graduating slightly to end at the sides of the skirt. The front of the gown was unbroken by trimming, but below the square neckline, the bodice was slashed three times in the back, and circular ruffles falling over the shoulders formed the sleeves. Mrs. Peters completed her costume with pink crystal button ear rings and blue slippers and carried Columbia roses.

The groomsman was Donald D. Williams, a fraternity brother of the groom.

Entering with her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was gowned in a charming en train model of cream pink lace, fashioned very simply on clinging lines and cut in the low decolletage in the back. The cape, falling to the back waistline and graduating to the elbow length, was finished with an edging of a harmonizing swirl of coq feathers, and was caught with three brilliant buttons. A cowled neck formed a soft roll at the throat. Mrs. Kunter's hat was a turban of pink tulle, with a soft drooping brim-veil, trimmed only with a twisted strand of the tulle around the crown, and she wore pink lace mitts and slippers. Her flowers were Kilarney roses and for-get-me-nots.

For the reception, Mrs. Caroline Johnston and Mrs. H. A. Shannon presided at the table, with its center mound of pink roses. The tall blue tapers were in low pink holders. Mrs. Ray Jordan, sister of the groom, cut the cakes. Assisting in serving were Misses Corinne McCarty, Aleen Neely, Berneece Liberman, Betty Cook, and Mrs. Roscoe Kroger of Alma. Miss Pauline Thompson and Mrs. Charles Applegate were at the punch bowl. Miss Elsie Pierson invited the guests into the dining room. Miss Evelyn Krotz of Odell was in the gift room and Miss Charistine Nesbitt had charge of the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Kunter have gone to Lake Okoboji on their wedding trip, after which they will go to Idaho Falls to reside. Mrs. Kunter is traveling in a blue crepe ensemble, with a bodice of blue and white polka dot taffeta, and a short jacket of blue, with revers in the dotted taffeta, and blue accessories. The skirt has a wind-blown effect through the pleating.

Guests from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. James P. Cook and son, Lawrence, Omaha; Mrs. Emma Wright, Houston, Tex.; Mss Mildred Swanson, Pender; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Miller, Diller; Louise Dysart and Ruth Penney, Auburn; Miss Winifred Shallcross, Miss Virgene McBride, and George Elmborg, Omaha; and Paul Chiles, Cook.

Mrs. Kunter is a graduate of the university, and a member of Phi Mu sorority. Mr. Kunter, who also received his degree at Nebraska, is an alumnus of Sigma Phi Sigma.

Rural Work Relief Provided Shortly

Farmers Complying With Requirements To Be Given Employment Near Their Homes.

The rural work-relief program to provide funds for drouth stricken farmers who need money to buy seed and feed should be in operation in a few days, according to County Agent J. F. Purbaugh, chairman of the county drouth committee. A special federal allotment is the source of the funds.

Application blanks which farmers will sign if they wish the work are to be mailed Saturday or Monday. To be eligible it is required that they reduce their livestock to ten units with a horse or cow counting as one unit, two hogs as a unit, and four sheep as a unit. The applications will be with County Relief Director Jobst and he will assign the jobs, Purbaugh said.

Under present plans it is expected that farmers who sign for work will be placed at work on county roads near their respective homes with about thirty hours of work a week at forty cents an hour. County Engineer Weaver, who has as yet received no official notification of the plan, says there are low places in the roads in all parts of the county which need filling and that this is the type of work he would recommend.

Purbaugh said it would be necessary for the applicant to work before he gets the money, but that pay checks will be issued weekly. Farmers will probably be limited to about $25 worth of work each month, Purbaugh said.

THREE INJURED IN AIR LINER CRASH

Big Ship Forced Down in Fog-Bound Cascades of Washington.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 8—(AP)—The wreck of a United Air Line passenger plane, only three of whose nine occupants were reported injured in a crash in the fog-bound Cascades, was sought today by a crew of loggers.

Their only guide to the location of the plane in the forest wilderness 100 miles east of here was the instructions of Co-Pilot Dwight Hansen, who fought his way through the underbrush to a logging railway.

Hansen said Pilot Ben Redfield suffered a possible broken arm and a girl passenger received a possible broken leg. All of the others in the plane, he said, were able to climb out of the cabin which was not smashed. Physicians said Hansen suffered a broken nose and a possible skull fracture.

Hansen said Redfield, piloting the plane on a flight from Spokane, Wash., to Seattle, had "throttled it down to low speed, because of the fog which crept along the peaks."

"All of a sudden we ran into a low ceiling in the fog. I guess I was the first one to see the trees, straight ahead on a hillside. I shouted to Ben: 'Pull up! Pull her up!'"

Then the big ship went into the trees and hit the hillside. Listed as aboard the plane beside the two pilots were Stewardess Marian Bennett of Salt Lake City; Mrs. O. G. Johanneson of Spokane; Helen Curran of Seattle; Daisy Mooney and Mercedes Boyd of Winthrop, Wash.; Robert C. Clark of Wenatchee and P. C. Beezley of Spokane.

UPHOLD VERDICT FOR MRS. GLICK

Supreme Court Affirms $11,000 Award To Lincoln Widow.

'Ambulance Chasing' Is Attacked By Judges; Goldman Disbarred.

The Supreme court Friday affirmed a verdict for $11,000 won by Mrs. Bessie Glick, Lincoln woman, in Lancaster county District court from the State Automobile Insurance association as a result of the death of her husband, Clarence Glick, who lost his life in an automobile accident here in 1930.

The Supreme court entered an order of disbarment against Lawrence B. Goldman, former Omaha attorney, sustaining the recommendation of the referee, Carroll O. Stauffer, in the disbarment action begun by former Attorney General C. A. Sorensen.

Hit Ambulance Chasing.

The court upheld the findings of the referee that Goldman is guilty of converting to his own use funds obtained for clients in damage suits, $1,200 in one instance and $2,100 in another; also that he practiced "ambulance chasing" which the court termed unethical and unprofessional conduct, subjecting an attorney to the "discipline of this court."

It was the first time that the Nebraska Supreme court ruled directly on the question whether "ambulance chasing" constituted unethical and unprofessional conduct.

Goldman, the opinion said, hired "runners" to solicit contracts from accident victims engaging Goldman to bring damage suits in their behalf, persons who, the court found, would not otherwise have retained him as their attorne;.

Such acts, the court said, violates canon 28 of the American Bar association's rules of conduct.

Brand Practice Unethical.

"We realize," the opinion said, "that attorneys have often complained that, if they were not aggressive along these lines, the claim agents of certain corporations would have already secured releases from the injured parties. This court cannot discipline laymen, but their unwarranted conduct does not excuse unethical practice on the part of attorneys.

"It is claimed that this court has never determined whether 'ambulance chasing' is unethical. The conduct of the defendant in this case brings the question squarely before us, and we now hold that such practice is unethical and unprofessional and subjects such attorney to the discipline of this court."

Goldman argued the case in his own behalf before the court after his attorneys had withdrawn.

The court branded as "ambulance chasing" the practice of an attorney in himself soliciting damage suits as well as hiring others to act for him.

Jungles Loses Fight.

David J. Jungles lost his fight to collect a claim against the failed State bank of Ravenna when the Supreme court affirmed a Buffalo county District court order dismissing his suit in intervention, after denying him a continuance.

The court, in a Douglas county case, held that defendants in a foreclosure action are not entitled to a second nine-months stay when a supplemental decree is entered to the decree of foreclosure. The appeal was brought by Claude L. Netheway against the Prudential Insurance Co. of America. The plaintiff obtained a supplemental decree covering payment of taxes after the foreclosure decree was entered and the defendants sought an additional nine-months stay of execution.

Mary Doon, who lost a personal injury suit against Alfred Adcock and others in Sarpy county, and failed to certify a bill of exceptions to the Supreme court, lost her appeal when the court sustained the verdict of the lower court on the pleadings.

The court remanded for new trial the automobile damage suit brought by Mrs. Eva Spittler against Robert Callan in Douglas county District court, where a jury awarded her $2,000, but which the trial judge reduced to $1,200.

The high court reversed the verdict on the failure of the trial court to give an instruction requested by the defendant on the law regarding right-of-way, which provides that a car on the right has the right-of-way provided it enters or approaches the intersection first, otherwise the car that enters first, has the right-of-way.

The Supreme court sustained an Adams county District court judgment denying Perley M. Green a new trial of his suit for an accounting against John A. Gardner, which was tried in 1929. Green announced his intention not to appeal, but later changed his mind, only to find that two of the exhibits he introduced in his behalf at the trial were lost. He then brought an independent suit to obtain a new trial on the ground that he was unable to obtain a bill exceptions for an appeal from the judgment in the first

Hunt for 'Stolen' Child Is Pressed

SHARON, Pa., June 8—(AP)—Spurred by the police announcement that 4-year-old Leah Minerva Dilley was "stolen," searchers today continued their hunt for the child who disappeared Sunday.

Reports that the child may have drowned in the Venango river which flows near the Dilley home, or in one of the smaller streams or ponds in the vicinity, were discounted by authorities.

Meanwhile, efforts are being made to obtain the release of George Dilley, 42, the child's father, from the Allegheny county workhouse at Pittsburgh. He is serving 90 days on charges of assault and battery filed by his wife. The couple has 10 other children.

VIOLENCE FLARES UP IN CLEVELAND TAXICAB STRIKE

CLEVELAND, O., June 8—(AP)—Violence flared again today in the taxicab strike here. Two drivers were injured, one cab was burned and other pushed over a cliff at the lake front as police cruisers roared through the city.

A strike of Yellow cab drivers began several weeks ago when the company would not negotiate with a drivers' union affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Meanwhile, police were investigating two bombs hurled at the poultry store of Louis Sosnowski which threw 10 persons from their beds and shattered 23 windows. The attack was attributed by Sosnowski to the fact that he has been employing a non-union "schechter" to that he has refused to join a wholekill poultry for Jewish trade, and sale chicken dealers' association which he says is "a racket."

SPANISH STRIKE FADES.

MADRID, June 8—(AP)—A general farm strike which has harassed Spain for four days was called off by socialists today in five towns. The situation was reported quieter, although four persons were seriously wounded here in a gun battle between civil guards and extremists staging an anti-fascist demonstration.

32 Sailors Volunteer Blood Transfusions to Child Ill of Leukemia

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—The navy—in part, at least—was 13-year-old Rose Binona's to command today for blood.

The child is gravely ill of leukemia in a Long Island hospital. Her father, Frederick Binona, appealed in a letter to Admiral David F. Sellers, commander-in-chief of the fleet now anchored here, for blood donors.

The appeal was broadcast to the men of the battleship Pennsylvania.

Thirty-two volunteered. A drawing reduced the number to 12 and from this group L. E. Warner, second class seaman of Oakland, Cal., was selected for the first transfusion yesterday. He gave a pint of blood. A. W. Stibitz, a third class fireman, will be next. Others will follow if needed.

Competition for the 12 places was spirited, several who failed to draw "lucky" numbers trying to buy them.

picture came from St. Paul, Minn., where crop and weather experts said the rain was worth $50,000,000.

Eastern Nebraska fields were treated to a steady and beneficial downpour that reached as much as 3 inches in some places, but western Nebraska remained parched. Rain belt farmers reported they were "sitting on top of the world."

A two and a quarter-inch rain fell at Norton, Kas.

Northwest Gets Soaker.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 8—(AP)—Rain drummed a dance of dollars on the sun-baked farm lands of the northwest today.

Worth $50,000,000 by one expert's estimate in North Dakota alone, the steady downpour flooded fields in nearly every section of the drouth-seared states of Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace conferred here today with drouth relief directors and announced that despite the break in the drouth the federal government will continue its relief program. The plan contemplates supplying 30,000,000 bushels of seed to northwest farmers for next year's crops.

Plans for such a seed distribution were presented by state and regional relief directors to Wallace, who said he was "highly favorable" to it.

Flood conditions prevailed today in many sections where a barren crust soil existed a week ago. Torrents of water swirled down ordinarily dry stream beds, carrying away bridges and uprooting railroad tracks.

Precipitation measured 2.75 inches at Napoleon, N. D., two inches at Brainerd, Minn., and 2.25 inches at Little Falls, Minn.

Hits Back at Critics.

The president struck at critics who say the government should devote itself to recovery first and reform later.

"It is childish," he said, "to speak of recovery first and reconstruction afterward. In the very nature of the processes of recovery we must avoid the destructive influences of the past."

The remarks about homes were interpreted as a declaration for enactment of the housing bill at this session. This bill is intended to encourage repair and building of homes by a partial government guarantee of loans.

About the new deal in general, the president said:

"We have sought to put forward the rule of fair play in finance and industry.

"It is true that there are a few among us who would still go back. These few offer no substitute for the gains already made, nor any hope for making future gains for human happiness.

"They loudly assert that individual liberty is being restricted by government, but when they are asked what individual liberties they have lost, they are put to it to answer."

This was clearly Mr. Roosevelt's reply to any opposition his administration encounters in the coming campaign.

Face Future With Confidence.

"You are completing," he told congress, "a work begun in March, 1933, which will be regarded for a long time as a splendid justification of the vitality of representative government. You and I, as the responsible directors of these policies and actions, may, with good reason, look to the future with confidence, just as we may look to the past 15 months with reasonable satisfaction.

"On the side of relief we have extended material aid to millions of our fellow citizens.

"On the side of recovery we have helped to lift agriculture and industry from a condition of utter prostration."

Two Children Are Found Tied to Bed and Mouths Taped; Parents Arrested

PONTIAC, Mich., June 8—(AP)—Raymond De Harrold, 32, and his wife, Maybelle, 26, today faced arraignment in Municipal court on cruelty charges on the complaint of police officers who said they found the two children of the couple bound hand and foot and tied to a bed in the De Harrold home, their mouths taped shut.

Called last night by neighbors, police found the mother at a party across the street. They took her to the county jail, where she spent the night. De Harrold, the officers said was at a motion picture show.

The police said the children, Eugene, 4, and Neoma, 6, were alone in the house. The tape was affixed to their mouths in "X" fashion so they could make no outcry.

GENERAL RAIN EXTENDS OVER EAST NEBRASKA

same period a year ago. They were Hartington, O'Neill, Tekamah and Sioux City, Lincoln has had 3.44 inches thus far this year as compared to 5.27 inches over the same period in 1933.

Sioux City reported a rain 2.86 totalling in the past 24 hours.

Phone Fuses Blown.

The United Air Lines reported Friday morning that its route to the west was all clear. The lightning flashes threatened to impair the telephone service of the Lincoln company as they blew out numerous terminal fuses. Workmen got out early in the morning, however, and the damage was all repaired by 9 o'clock.

Superior had no rain, only a strong wind and plenty of dust.

Burlington reports showed that the rains of Thursday afternoon and early Friday were general over most of its lines. From Kearney to Fairmont a fourth to a half inch of moisture fell, from Lincoln to Crete the tally was .25 to .50. From Lincoln to Ravenna reports showed .25 to an inch of rain.

The heaviest rains in the state were said to be in the vicinity between Hampton and Grand Island, although from McLean to Fremont 1¼ inches to 3 inches fell. Holstein to Alma got from an inch to an inch and a half. Horace got .25, Greeley to Palmer got more than an inch, and from Sargent to St. Paul nearly a half inch fell.

Northeast Area Gets Rain.

From Palmer to Marquette, Burlington stations reported, an inch to an inch and a half fell, and from O'Neill to McLean the total was almost an inch. Fremont to Ashland had in the neighborhood of an inch of precipitation.

The Wymore division reported cool temperatures under heavy clouds Friday morning, but Thursday it rained an inch from Holdrege to Campbell and a good shower fell at Fairbury, Beatrice and Firth. Alliance and Sterling divisions reported clear or partly cloudy and no rain. The Casper division received more good rains.

Other reports indicated that Hastings, Davis City, Wahoo, Seward, Weeping Water and Minden were other points in the central and the eastern areas receiving good rains.

Hail At Grand Island.

At Grand Island a little hail accompanied the city's first good rain since April, but no damage was reported. Good rains fell at Stapleton and Miller, the Associated Press reported.

A small tornado struck at Orchard late Thursday afternoon and uprooted several trees, whipping dust and sand through the air viciously. Good rains fell at Osmond, Belden, Center, Winnetoon, Norfolk and Creighton.

At Fremont three horses were killed and a house damaged by lightning.

Fullerton, Belgrade, Phillips and various points in Harlan and in Franklin counties were other areas which received measurable rains.

Track Damaged.

From 3 to 4 inches of rain fell at Orleans and trains were delayed briefly as some track ballast was washed away. From Minden to Oxford, .50 to 1.50 inches fell, Long Island, Kas., had a half inch and Almena, Kas., had two inches and a half. Norton, Kas., reported two inches.

During the early morning hours, the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company reports showed rains as follows: Hastings, .57; Harvard, .25; York, .37; David City, 1; Plattsmouth and Auburn, showers; Clay Center, .21; Brainard, .25; Bellwood, 2; Bruno, 1.61; Garrison, .50; Octavia, 1; Rising City, 1; Fairfield, light showers; Stromsburg, 1.03; and Polk, .75.

Farmers in the areas where the rain fell were jubilant Friday morning as crops perked up a little. At Nebraska City, the Associated Press said, pastures were greening and replanting of corn was being resumed. At O'Neill, a newspaper man gleefully reported "we're sitting on top of the world."

Although the western sections reported no rains, they all indicated that the moisture of the first of the week was great enough to carry them over until next week. Box Butte county said winter wheat deficiency was 90 per cent and spring wheat, 50 per cent.

The intensity of the drouth in the central areas was indicated by a report from Ord that the total rainfall there thus far in 1934 was 1.80 inches.

Damage In Northeast.

NORFOLK, Neb., June 8—(AP)—Drouth-breaking rains ranging from an inch to three and one-half inches, windstorms that left debris in their wake and some hail, but not enough to cause serious damage, visited northeast Nebraska Thursday. Many bridges, culverts and approaches to highway structures were washed out by swollen creeks in a number of places following torrential rains.

Windstorms at Creighton, Orchard and Winnetoon caused considerable damage to farm buildings, telephone lines, houses and trees. Between Wynot and Newcastle five bridges were washed out, District Engineer J. B. Martin reported.

Culverts were damaged in the vicinity of Hartington, while approaches to two new bridges on No. 20 east of Osmond were ripped out by rushing waters. Near Allen creek waters ripped out a bridge and cut away the creek so much the bridge will have to be fifteen feet longer when rebuilt.

The heaviest rain reported was three and one-half inches at Humphrey, north of where highway traffic was tied up for about five hours when two large trucks were stalled in water rushing across the road.

Orchard Digging Out.

ORCHARD, Neb., June 8—(AP)—Citizens here Friday began work repairing damage done by a terrifying wind, dust and rain storm here Thursday.

The storm wrecked several old ramshackle buildings, stripped many others of their shingles and blew a quarter mile of telephone poles down across highway 20 near here.

The wind blew terrifically from every direction and the south blew brought in great quantities of red Oklahoma dust before the rain. The rain clouds came up from the south and turned a square corner east of here to come directly across the town. A fall of .20 of an inch was received then and 1.15 inches last night.

ALTMEYER SWORN IN.

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP)—Arthur J. Altmeyer of Madison Wis., was sworn in today as second assistant secretary of labor. Altmeyer succeeds Walter W. Husband.

Officials Declare Too Few Hydrants In Fire Vicinity

Fire Chief Louis Hansen, Commissioners Doerr and Harm were all agreed Friday that too few hydrants are located on North Fourteenth street in the vicinity of the Queen Incubator factory fire.

Harm said the mains are too small and complained of insufficient pressure to Doerr, who denied any difficulty in maintaining the pressure during the fire. Chief Hansen said fire crews employed pumpers to produce high pressure but that this was nothing unusual as the pressure is always "boosted" for large fires.

CATTLE BUYING PLANS PUSHED

Federal Program Will Be Used If Necessary, Says Gramlich.

Although it was hoped that rains will alleviate the drouth situation in Nebraska and eliminate the necessity of putting the federal cattle buying program into effects, plans for putting the plan into operation if necessary in some counties were going forward in Lincoln Friday. Prof. H. J. Gramlich, chairman of the animal husbandry department at the college of agriculture, who is director of the program in Nebraska, conferred with A. E. Anderson, state and federal statistician, and L. A. White, rural rehabilitation director, during the morning about the matter.

"We hope that enough rain will fall to allow farmers to grow enough feed for their livestock to keep them from suffering but if the condition develops that the program will have to be put into effect, we will be ready to start," Gramlich declared after his conference with White and Anderson.

Still In Good Shape.

Cattle throughout the state appear to be in pretty good shape as yet, according to reports reaching Gramlich and other state officials. Very few, if any, animals are emaciated. However, agricultural agents were being contacted early Friday afternoon in an effort to determine the exact status of the livestock and pasture conditions. In some counties, Anderson's figures show, pastures are as low as 7 per cent of normal.

Gramlich pointed out one example of where government buying might help some farmers and give them more for their cattle than they could realize on the market. A 1,300-pound dairy cow in good flesh, belonging to the college of agriculture, this week brought 1½ cents per pound on the market and grossed $19.50. Under the federal program, the same animal probably would have brought $20 on the farm, he said.

Buying of cattle will be carried on by county committees which have already been set up. W. W. Derrick, extension animal husbandman at the college, has this work completed and these groups are ready to act on a moment's notice. However, before a county can participate in the plan, that specific territory must be named an emergency or primary county. Thus far there are no such areas in Nebraska athough a number of counties have been named secondary drouth counties.

Awaits Drouth Reports.

Reports from agricultural agents and farmers throughout the state together with information in recently completed surveys will help Gramlich determine which counties should be included in the emergency or primary drouth area. He said he might have this report ready by Monday but hoped that heavy general rains will fall over the state before that time.

Cattle, two years and over, under the plan, would sell from $12 to $20 per head. Yearlings would bring $10 to $15, and calves $4 to $8 per head. In all cases, the lower figure represents the amount paid for condemned cattle. The county or precinct committee would appraise the cattle to be sold and veterinarians would inspect the cattle and condemn those not fit to be shipped.

Gramlich emphasized the fact that the program, if started here, will be entirely voluntary. No Nebraska farmer, he said, will be forced to sell his animals unless he so wishes. If the animals are mortgaged, both the mortagee and the owner must sign the contract to sell.

constitutional amendment must bear the names of 10 per cent of the total vote cast for governor at the preceding election (in this case, slightly more than 57,000 names) distributed so as to include 5 per cent of the voters of two-fifths of the counties.

In connection with the filing, Gallagher also released a statement from Senator Norris, who said that he "would devote all my time in the coming campaign in behalf of the proposed amendment."

Norris said that he believed that he could do more effective work in behalf of this movement by refraining from participating in the political campaign, since the proposed amendment is non-partisan.

Norris' statement follows:

"I have been informed by Donald Gallagher that a sufficient number of petitions has been obtained to place the amendment providing for a unicameral legislature upon the official ballot.

"On behalf of those who believe such an amendment will give Nebraska a more efficient and economical government, I desire to thank all those who assisted in the work of procuring the signatures to these petitions. I think you who have so agitated have done wonderful work, and I believe your greatest pay will eventually be the satisfaction of knowing that you have been instrumental in helping to bring about a better form of government for our great state. In my judgment, your work will be enthusiastically vindicated at the polls next November.

"In the campaign I shall devote all my time in behalf of this proposed amendment. Since this amendment is entirely a non-partisan proposition and believing as I do that I can do more effective work in behalf of this movement by refraining from participating in the political campaign, I shall take no part whatever in the primaries or in the election which follows.

"The proposition should be kept entirely out of partisan politics. If this is one and the question is settled entirely upon its merits, I have no doubt but what it will be approved by the people of Nebraska by an overwhelming majority in November."

"G. W. NORRIS."

GIVEN TWO YEARS.

DAVID CITY, Neb., June 8—(AP)—Ralph Bennet, 19, was given a two year penitentiary sentence here yesterday for forgery, his second offense. He was caught in Madison county, returned here yesterday and at once pleaded guilty.

got under way at 8:30 o'clock, Defense Attorney Beghtol speedily concluded his direct examination of Conklin. The defendant had previously been examined by his attorney for more than 4 hours during Wednesday and Thursday sessions. The defense attorney put in evidence expense accounts showing dates of meetings held out in the state for the reappraisal of state school lands during the later part of 1933.

County Attorney Towle then opened his lashing cross-examination, flashing from one topic to the other in rapid-fire manner.

"You don't know that Lester Danielson ever saw the face of his warrant, do you?" Towle began.

"I know that he did," Conklin answered.

Q. Did he do that every time, do you think?

A. I don't know that he examined it closely every time.

Sometimes Gave More.

Q. From the time he began to work for you in June, 1933 until he was discharged in March of this year, you always took out $45 each month from his check?

A. Sometimes he gave me more.

Q. You mean a couple of times he gave you $10 for Lane?

A. No.

Q. You were always on hand when the payrolls arrived?

A. They were held until I got there.

Q. In connection with "The Young Democrat," you were under no legal obligation to reimburse subscribers?

A. Not any legal obligation.

Q. You just felt it was your moral obligation?

A. Certainly.

Q. Now, you answered a blanket question for Mr. Beghtol in which you said that at no time did you ever tell the janitors they were to receive less than their warrants called for?

A. That's right.

Larson Told Of Fund.

Q. Will you tell us the first time you ever heard of anyone contributing any money in any form, presumably for your campaign fund?

A. I think I testified Mr. Larson told me.

Q. Didn't you want Larson to be the collector?

A. That was never mentioned.

Q. Now, how could you in March of this year put on such an act and express surprise to the janitors by telling them you had just found out Lane was collecting money when you had known it for a year?

A. I knew only that they were contemplating raising a fund.

Q. You never knew that any contributions were actually made?

A. I knew some contributions were made, but I didn't know by whom or how much.

Towle next drew testimony from Conklin that a number of the old time janitors had been cut from $100 to $90, including one man who had worked at the capitol for 32 years. "It was necessary," Conklin declared.

Q. Now you hired Hahn when you were reducing the salaries of the old men. The pay roll voucher you approved shows you hired him for $100. Is that right?

A. If the voucher shows that, it must be.

Q. How does it happen you were hiring new men at $100 when you were reducing the salaries of others.

New Men Given More Work.

A. Because of a consolidation of assignments. They took on new duties.

Conklin estimated in answer to Towle's questions that he had engaged somewhere from 5 to 10 new men. He said it was impossible to tell without reference to the payroll vouchers whether any had been engaged for less than $100 per month.

The county attorney asked the defendant next concerning his reasons for firing Lane. Conklin said it was because of the complaints made by janitors, and because he had learned Lane was forcing campaign contributions.

Q. You're still friendly with Lane.

A. Yes.

Q. Did you fire him because he was inefficient or because he was collecting money?

A. Lane was always efficient.

Q. You hired Mr. Beghtol to represent Mr. Lane as well as yourself, didn't you?

A. I didn't hire him. I arranged it.

Beghtol's objection to this statement was overruled by Judge Frost.

Fired For Collections.

Q. Didn't you fire Lane because you thought it would look better when you went before the janitors?

A. No. Because of his collecting the money, and because the janitors complained he was a slave driver.

Q. But these janitors were to be fired, weren't they?

A. No.

Q. Why were they fired then?

A. Because they lied in making affidavits to the attorney general's office that they were hired for less than their payroll vouchers show.

The cross-examination now turned to the question of affidavits which some of the janitors signed at Conklin's invitation, the gist of the affidavits being that the signers had never been forced by Conklin to pay him any money. Asked by Towle when he invited the janitors to sign these affidavits, Conklin said it was because he had heard Omaha lawyers were coming to see him on behalf of the janitors.

Q. But your conscience was clear. Why would you want to protect yourself with affidavits?

"My Conscience Clear."

A. I knew it wouldn't do any harm. It was true my conscience was clear.

Q. Why did you want the men to sign?

A. To prove I had never had any arrangement with them.

In the cross-examination which followed, Conklin denied Warner Sutherland came to him in May, 1933, and told him janitors were being forced to make contributions. Towle also referred again to Lester Danielson, and Conklin said Danielson had been a full time man. "He was my general utility man," the defendant stated. He denied Danielson went to work at $65 a month, but declared his pay was $100 "as shown by the payroll vouchers."

Conklin stated he had known Fred Chambers, University of Nebraska track star who testified for the state, nearly all of Chambers' life. He admitted under Towle's questioning that one of the first attorneys he had consulted when the "payroll scandal" arose was Guy Chambers, who is Fred's uncle.

Q. Did you say to the Chambers boy, as he testified, that his salary was to be $55 a month but that his check would be for $65?

A. No.

Q. Knowing the boy as well as you do, and knowing his uncle well enough to consult him, how do you account for the testimony Fred gave?

A. I can't account for it.

Asked About Chicago Trip.

The import of one line of cross-examination by Towle was not immediately revealed.

"Did you go to the World's fair last year?" he asked Conklin.

"Yes," the defendant replied.

Q. What month?

A. I think it was the early fall.

Q. Do you think you can possibly fix the month?

Conklin referred to a record of school appraisal meetings, and fixed the fair trip at sometime in September or October.

Q. At what hotel did you stay?

A. I can't remember the name. It was a small hotel.

Q. How many days were you there?

A. Five or six.

Q. You were in and out of the hotel for several days, and you can't remember its name?

A. I came in late in the evening, and left early in the morning. I attended the fair during the day.

Quizzed on Cashing Warrants.

Towle then questioned him as to the reason why, after cashing the warrants of Holtzendorf and Lester Danielson, another janitorial employe, he personally took the warrants to the bank and cashed them without endorsing them. Conklin said the bank did not ask his endorsement and that he did not think it necessary.

"In your contacts with janitors did it ever seem funny to you that all of them seemed constantly to be owing Lane money," Towle asked.

"Oh, I dont' know," Conklin said. "A lot of them owed me money too."

Miss Gosnell's testimony began under direct examination with the declaration that Attorney General Paul Good told her "Bryan has been told on good information that you delivered to Lane a book taken from Conklin's office the night before his arrest."

The witness said she denied to Good that she removed a book. "I then slept on the matter, and the next day I counted ten and went in to see Bryan," she related. "I asked him why he made the assertion to Good. He asked me if I hadn't talked to Lane, and I said I had gone to his office when he called me out of bed between 11 and 12 o'clock the night before Conklin's arrest."

Sought Aid Conklin.

Miss Gosnell related she told the governor Lane said he had been trying to get hold of Conklin or Wehn, but had been unable to do so and wanted her advice about helping Conklin.

"I then told Governor Bryan that I had tried to sell medallions of Roosevelt and Garner at the capitol before the last election, but that employes in he building said they had already had to contribute to campaign funds and could not buy from me. I told the governor I thought I was in a position to know the Lancaster democratic committee never got any money thus raised, and that I hadn't seen anything in the papers about the state getting it," she continued.

Miss Gosnell said Bryan answered this by saying: "Well, well. There. There."

Over protests by Towle that the "witness is trying to make a speech," the stenographer continued: "I told Governor Bryan he would have to take back his statement about my removing a book. He said he didn't tell Attorney General Good I took a book, but had assumed Lane got in touch with me. I asked him, how much more are you assuming about Mr. Conklin."

On cross-examination, Miss Gosnell said she didn't ask Governor Bryan what book he was talking about, but gathered from his conversation he referred to the book in which Lane kept records of contributions received from janitors.

Advised Lane "Come Clean."

Asked by Towle what she told Lane when he called her for advice, Miss Gosnell stated: "I told him if he had done anything wrong, to come clean. I told him not to run away whatever he did, that Mr. Conklin was in deep trouble."

When the county attorney questioned her about her resignation in Merrick county, Miss Gosnell declared: "I resigned on the illegal advice of the county attorney there. I had to make a report on funds and didn't have them. The county attorney said the only thing I could do was to resign. I had the funds in the county treasurer's office before I resigned. A day later the county board appointed an uncle of the county attorney to my place, and only one of the board knew the man appointed was related to the county attorney."

"You resigned, didn't you, because you were short $5,000," Towle asked.

"No, that's not true. It was about $800."

Towle concluded his examination with Miss Gosnell's admission she has been sitting with Mrs. Conklin during part of the trial.

Elite of Golf Baffled by Merion's Many Traps

Not One of Nation's Links Masters Able Reel Off Par Score

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8—(INS)—More in sorrow than in anger, the field that was going to annihilate par at Merion turned into the second round of the national open golf championship today, hoping only to placate this surprisingly robust course and pander to its whims. They had made of it a ribald jest and merry gibe in practice, but in actuality yesterday they succumbed to its lures in a manner wholly out of keeping with their inherent prestige.

None Could Equal Par.

Of an original field of 149, including the greatest golfers in the world, only three were able to approach par for the course, 70, and none could equal it.

The leading trinity in the overnight returns were Wiffy (the name is Wilfred) Cox, of Brooklyn's public links; Charley Lacey, Great Neck, L. I., and Bobby Cruikshank, now located at Richmond, Va. They had 71s, one over par, with Gene Sarazen, former champion, occupying in solitary grandeur a somewhat ominous position two strokes behind the leaders.

Grouped immediately behind Sarazen were Paul Runyan, New York; Mortie Dutra, Royal Oak, Mich.; Horton Smith, Chicago; Willie Goggin, San Francisco; Jimmy Thomson, Los Angeles; Rodney Bliss, Omaha amateur, and George Von Tim, New York, who won't embrace professionalism but will consent to take the money just the same. They had 74s and a great chance of encroaching upon the margin of profit the leaders held this morning, if not of actually wiping it out altogether.

Goodman Starts With 76.

Johnny Goodman, amateurism's 1933 champion of this tournament, was not altogether out of it, either, with his 76, nor was Walter Hagen, the bronzed Thespian who also had a 76 and a well defined 'idea' that, with the slackening of Merion's winds, the field and the tournament might yet yield to his determined blade. But actually, this pair and those around them had to come on and declare themselves today, the forfeiture being an ultimate position too far back to be interesting, either to themselves or their public.

At that, they were far better placed this morning than were Tommy Armour, the so-called "Black Scot," with an 82, and W. Lawson Little, the genius of Prestwick, where he won the recent British amateur championship. Little finished the first round with an 83, taking an eight on the fateful fourth, where so many came to grief. He will do well if he's still with us tonight, at which time the field will be reduced for the final rush through Saturdays' double round.

Fischer Has Bad Day.

As for Johnny Fischer, another Walker cup man, he took all of 85 strokes, with a 47 on the outgoing nine. This was the tougher of the two sides of the course, with the wind beating its way into every shot; yet a 47 is bad golf in a cyclone.

Some of the other leaders were those with 75s, the list including Johnny Farrell, former champion, Willie Hunter, Joe Kirkwood, Charley Yates, Atlanta amateur, John Kinder, Craig Wood, Macdonald Smith nd Johnny Golden, with a veritable horde following at 76. And there you have a fitting commentary upon this championship. Even a man at 76 still has a fighting chance in what undoubtedly was the least impressive of all recent championship first rounds.

I suppose that even Denny Shute, present British open champion; Ralph Guldahl, runner-up last year, and Phil Perkins, ex-champion of the amateurs abroad, still feel that they are entitled to hope, although they had 78s. Of course, this vague delusion can extend itself neither to Little nor Armour, neither of whom really can hope to come on from where they are. Armour, in fact, would be the last to concede himself a chance now, after taking 44 strokes on the comparatively easy back-nine yesterday.

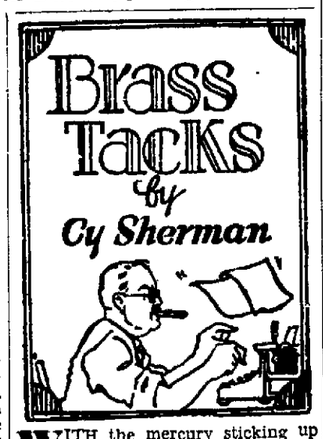
Sarazen and Runyan.

Only the three leaders, indeed, can recall that ghastly first round this morning without a qualm. Sarazen and Runyan, first and second choices in the betting, were not to be greatly comforted by what took place, both playing struggling golf throughout, climaxed by Sarazen's holing of a shot from the sand for a birdie at the ninth, and Runyan's miss of a two-footer at the eighteenth.

As for the front men, they were up there this morning only because they had the divine touch on the greens, although, at that, Cox alternated between three putts and one. He's the lad who sits around the golf shop at Dyker Beach in Brooklyn, collecting a professional's municipal salary and a few facts on human nature. He never has been able to string four good rounds together in a championship.

Cruickshank, of course, once got as far as a play-off with Jones for the 1923 title and absolutely has the golf, any time it happens to come out. Lacey, they say, was once a tailor in London and I'm inclined to believe the story. He certainly needled his way around this course yesterday.

Brass Tacks by Cy Sherman



WITH the mercury sticking up there at the hundred mark, frequently surpassing that figure, it may be a poor time for me to be working myself into a stew over the fact that our Lincoln Links aren't receiving the response they deserve in the department of patronage. Nevertheless, I have a conviction that the present moment is appropriate for a bit of plain speaking on the subject of "Baseball In Lincoln."

Aside from the fact that the Griffin-Lingle aggregation has been topping the percentage reckoning almost from the first day of the Nebraska league campaign, it seemed to me that the success of the Links in putting over that 9-1 thrashing of the St. Joseph Saints, leaders at the time in the class A Western loop, would bring a quick tumble in the ranks of local fandom; that the followers of the diamond game would come to a full realization that the Links of 1934 have been displaying a sparkling quality of baseball—a brand calculated to keep the turnstiles clicking at a merry pace.

I suspect that much of the apparent lack of interest in the accomplishments of the Links may be attributed to the class D rating of the Nebraska league. I venture that explanation because many Lincoln fans have assured me that if the state capital city were hooked up with a class A circuit, there would be an immediate revival of baseball enthusiasm in this town.

THIS particular brand of philosophy evidently suggests that the lettered name on the visiting team's uniforms counts more at the box office than the quality of baseball displayed on the field. All of which may represent a natural impulse, but is it completely logical?

I ask that question because I rate it as an incontrovertible statement of fact that in the lineup of the 1934 Links there may be—probably are—young ball players who in the course of a few years may be up there in "big time," making the headlines in the metropolitan sport sheets by virtue of the brilliance of their performances in the diamond sport.

Now don't be asking me to name the player or players of the 1934 Links whom I rate as future big leaguers, for an obscure youngster, at the moment, might come with a rush and show me up as a punk prophet. I merely know that baseball's history book is full of instances telling of rookies who were razzed for their faults in the lower leagues; of youngsters who mastered their shortcomings and eventually climbed the heights to diamond fame.

I NEED go no farther back than an even year ago to prove at least part of my point. Local fans will remember Don Gutteridge, who wore Lincoln spangles during the seasons of 1932 and 1933.

Gutteridge stood for his share of the guffaws regularly bestowed on the Links of the period mentioned, but the boy had confidence in his ability and the courage to go on with the battle, regardless of the razz chorus in the stands.

And where is Don Gutteridge today? Well, he's going at a sensational gait for the Houston club of the Texas league, a class A organization.

The Cardinals of St. Louis, owners of the Houston franchise, think so highly of Don that they appraise him today as a $15,000 ball player, one destined to mount the grade to the National league.

THIS tale of Gutteridge is no "dream story." I quote from a recent issue of the St. Louis Sporting News, recognized as the "official spokesman of organized baseball," as follows:

"Charley Barrett, scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, rates Don Gutteridge a $15,000 ball player, although the youngster has been with Houston of the Texas league only since the training season opened. This naturally means that the home office will keep a strict watch on the 21-year-old prospect who is playing third base for the Breadon-Rickey farm club.

"Hitting is Gutteridge's long suit, but reports have it that he is improving in the field and that before many more diamond semesters he will be doing his work in the majors. As a member of the Lincoln club of the Nebraska State league in 1933, Don hit for a mark of .360 which was enough to give him the batting title. He had 22 doubles, 23 triples and nine home runs.

"On the strength of his showing, the infielder was one of the group of players selected by Scout Barrett in the blanket purchase plan carried out by the Cardinals in the little loop. He was assigned to Columbus late in the season, and this spring was sent to Houston."

GUTTERIDGE, who attended Kansas State Teachers' college, joined Joplin in the spring of 1932, and was released optionally to Lincoln. A year ago he was sent back to the Nebraska city unconditionally and Scout Barrett made him his No. 1 man when he took his pick of the talent in the little loop late last summer.

"Don is not a giant, but he gives the ball a good ride and has ambition to advance in the game."

There it is, Lincoln fans—a former Nebraska leaguer is well on his way to the big show. I shan't be surprised if he reaches that goal before the end of another year.

If Gutteridge, a Nebraska league product, is big league material, surely there are more of his kind in the lineup of the 1934 Links. Wherefore it seems to me that it might be worth the while of Lincoln fans to trek more numerously to the ball yard, seeing for themselves what manner of ball club it is that is setting the pace in this Nebraska loop.

FIGHT followers everywhere were brought up with a jerk when the word came from the training camp of Max Baer the other night that the Californian had asked a week's postponement of his 15-round brawl with Champion Primo Carnera, scheduled for Thursday night, June 14.

The explanation that the frolicking gent from Livermore needed an additional week of training was filed in the western battler's behalf. As for myself, it failed to ring 100 per cent true. In fact, I suspect John Dempsey, who seems to be doing all the heavy thinking for his Maxie boy, was pulling a fast one on the folks of Carnera's camp.

The New York boxing commission, having sole authority in the premises, may or may not grant the postponement, but whether it does or not is not important, for Dempsey has scored his point.

The old mauler has sold the story—hook, sinker, line and pole—to the Carnera crowd that Maxie isn't in condition to fight June 14. All of which means, if the commish refuses to grant the delay, that an overconfident Carnera may be going into action the night of June 14. Carnera will be expecting something easy— and a heap of strange things might happen to a slow-thinking champion in that frame of mind.

PRIMO ENJOYING DAY'S VACATION

Morning Road Trip Only Friday Activity At Carnera Camp.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 8—(INS)—The champion walked out on visitors and didn't do a bit of work here today. Primo Carnera, world's heavyweight champion who is training for defense of his title with Max Baer on June 14 at the Garden bowl, went on the road as usual in the morning, but when it came to boxing, that was out.

In fact, there won't be much more fisticuffs in the camp. Yustin Siruts, one of the giants who has been helping Primo for three weeks in his boxing, packed up last night and went home to New York. Corn Griffin remains, as does Chester Matan, so it is certain that all work with the gloves will not be curtailed.

Among the champion's handlers, the talk of his having gone "stale," is a joke. At least they look upon it as such. Having worked in camp but four weeks, they contend that it would be impossible for Primo to have overdone it. At the same time, they do not believe Max Baer is two weeks behind in his training.

Scoff at Baer Stories.

They are inclined to think that the laughing boy from California is trying to hoodwink the big title-holder into easing up. Primo himself thinks it a trick and little Billy Defoe, a first-rate conditioner and an old fighter himself, training Primo, laughs louder than Baer ever did at the yarn coming from Asbury Park.

"Funny they didn't think of that postponement until Dempsey arrived, isn't it? Jack was raised under a great ballyhoo man, Jack Kearns. It's the heat, pure and simple, and if they think we are going into a froth over it, they're barking up the wrong tree. Baer is ready now. If he isn't he'd better be, because my man never has been in such condition in his life."

Board Hears Protest Filed by Leon Duray

INDIANAPOLIS, June 8—(AP)—The contest board of the American Automobile association came here today to hear Leon Duray's protest against Wild Bill Cummings of Indianapolis being declared winner of the 500-mile race, run May 30.

Duray, owner of the car which finished second, has contended that Cummings gained on the field early in the race, disregarding orders to slow down while wreckage was removed from the track following an accident.

It was those few seconds, according to Duray, which enabled Cummings to finish the race a few seconds ahead of Mauri Rose, driver of the second place car.

Stewards of the contest board, in charge of the race, overruled Duray's protest the day following the contest. He then appealed the decision to the contest board. The money for first place, totaling $29,075, and for second place, $14,250, has been held up pending decision of the contest board.

HARDYS HOP ON WOODS.

Hardy Furniture advanced to fourth place in the City amateur baseball league standings by scoring a lopsided 10-3 triumph over Woods at Muny field Thursday evening.

Woods led, 2-1, after the first inning was through, but Johnny Meyers began slipping his slants past the Woods batters to check their ferocity, while the Hardys hopped on Woods for four runs in the second frame to sew up the ball game.

Meyers, leading the league in strikeouts, increased his number of victims to 32 with 10 more Thursday evening. Forrest Bauer slapped a homer with two on in the fourth and increased his season's batting average from .167 to .400 with three hits in four tries. Score:

Dempsey Demands Fat Garden Salary

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 8—(INS)—Jack Dempsey does not yet know definitely whether he will take over the boxing job at the Garden. Colonel Hammond offered it to him, but the old man from Manassa is asking for $5,000 a month salary and 15 per cent of the profits from boxing. If the Garden does not agree, it will be "no dice."

Eye-to-Eye Battle; Doctor Called In

Two members of Decker's softball team in the City league, Charles Brown, catcher, and Jim Hoke, third baseman, were injured Thursday evening when they collided while going after a foul fly. The collision happened in the first of the fifth.

Brown had 11 stitches taken in an eyebrow, while Hoke's injury necessitated nine stitches from the middle of the nose to the forehead. Both were all right Friday morning, according to Fred Decker, team manager.

MEN OF TERRY IN FIRST PLACE

Leader of Giants Able Now to Scoff At His Critics.

By GENE LAWRENCE.

NEW YORK, June 8—(INS)—A few weeks ago, when the New York Giants were floundering through the west like an over-weighted blimp, the experts did everything but write Bill Terry out of the managership of the team. But it's Bill's turn to laugh now.

Not only have the Giants failed to continue their downward descent, as was freely predicted, but today finds them a full game in front of the National league pack. Moreover, the club is playing the type of ball that won them the National league and world's championship pennants last season.

Yesterday at the Polo grounds, the men of Terry stepped out and slaughtered the Boston Braves, 14 to 5. The champs were in a vicious mood and no less than 14 hits were scored off the offerings of Bill Brandt and Fred Frankhouse, a fair pair of hurlers. Mel Ott, the perennial boy outfielder, came through with two homers.

Dodgers Come to Life.

While the Giants were showing to such good advantage, their interborough rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers were proving themselves not as bad as they are painted. Thanks to the efforts of two rookies, they defeated the Phillies 1 to 0, in an old-time thriller. Emil Leonard, first-year pitcher, soft-balled the Phils dizzy, holding them to seven hits, while Len Koenecke, who wasn't good enough for the Giants a few seasons back crashed a homer in the first inning for the only score.

At Cincinnati, Red Lucas faced the team for whom he labored for so many years and the Pirates of Pittsburgh won another game, this time by a 2 to 1 score. Lucas was in rare form and his former mates could get no more than four hits off his offerings.

At St. Louis the Chicago Cubs showed they had a ten-strike in picking up "Big Jim" Weaver, right-hander, after he had been discarded by the St. Louis Browns. Weaver held the hard-hitting Cardinals to seven scattered hits and shut them out, 1 to 0.

Senators Subdue Mackmen.

In the American league, the feature of the day was another neat bit of pitching by Earl Whitehill, star southpaw of the Senators. Whitehill held the Philadelphia Athletics to six hits to win going away by a 7-3 score.

Mickey Cochrane's Detroit Tigers continued at the head of the procession by pounding out an easy 11-6 victory over the Cleveland Indians. The Tigers got only 10 hits, two less than the Indians, but they hit when hits were needed. Tommy Bridges was the winning hurler.

At Chicago, those amazing St. Louis Browns continued to amaze, defeating the White Sox, 5 to 3. Zeke Bonura sensational Sox rookie, hit his fifteenth homer of the year, but Zeke couldn't do it all. Newsom and Knott hurled for the Hornsbylites.

The Yankees-Red Sox game at Boston was postponed because of cold weather and soggy grounds.

CITY LEAGUE.

Utilizing two hits and two Lawlor errors, Bankers Life shut out the Sportsmen, 3-0, in a City softball league game Thursday evening. Brehm, chucking for the winners, was touched for a trio of safe singles, while the Insurancemen played errorless ball. Duffies, aided and abetted by eight Sell's errors and whanging some 20 bows rattled some 22 runs across the plate to a none for Sell's Amen throwing for the winner, was touched for only one blow.

The last three innings saw City Club come from behind to trounce Deckers, 5-3, with Leichner holding the Grocers to three blows. Luchsingers downed Lincoln Cycle, 10-2, and Havelock won from Star Van, 9-5.

LINKS PUT OVER SERIES SWEEP

Griffin's Gang Cleans Up String of Three Games With Canaries.

NORFOLK HERE TONIGHT.

Norfolk comes here Friday for a four-game series which will be concluded with a doubleheader Sunday afternoon. The Saturday night game will be another ladies' night, with the feminine fans admitted gratis. Tonight's game will start at 8:30, with Nelson Potter scheduled to do the chucking.

Four runs in the big fifth gave Lincoln a 6-1 triumph over Sioux Falls at Landis Field Thursday night in the concluding conflict of the series. The Griffin-Lingle outfit, performing faultlessly in the field, swept the Sioux Falls series and has lost but one out of six starts since returning home.

Long Tom Railsback was on the mound for the Links, yielding but six scattered hits and whiffing six. Potter, announced as the Thursday tosser, was held in reserve for the stronger Norfolk Elks tonight.

Sioux Falls went in front, as usual, in the first inning, having taken a first-inning lead in all of the three games of the series. From then on, Railsback had the Canaries caged, setting them back in order in the fourth and ninth stanzas. The Canaries threatened in the sixth, with runners on first and second and none away, but nothing came of it.

Links Have One Big Inning.

Lincoln tied the count in the third, when Genzlinger lived on Olson's error and came in on Filbert's single to center. In the fifth, doubles by Phillips and Langkop and singles by Railsback and Lobaugh, plus Horlo's error, gave the Links four runs and the victory. Just for good measure, the Griffins collected another marker in the sixth.

Pitcher Perry of Sioux Falls drew a big hand in the third, Genzlinger had already scored, but Perry filled the bases, Filbert, Railsback and Lobaugh getting on the paths with none away. Perry then struck out Zimmerman and Callahan and Phillips grounded out. The same situation occurred in the fifth but the Canary hook-arm failed on this occasion, as the Links came through with their four-run rampage. The score:

California Shaken By An Earthquake

LOS ANGELES, June 8—(AP)—An earthquake shook a large area of central and southern California last night, but reports showed no damage.

Observers at the Carnegie institution's seismological laboratory in Pasadena described it as severe enough, however, to have spread considerable havoc at its epicenter.

The quake was felt in only a small part of Los Angeles, but adjacent cities and half a dozen others in central California reported the shock was quite heavy.

Theaters in Ventura and Santa Maria were rapidly vacated by patrons when the tremor shook those coast towns at 8:48 p. m.

Hanford, in central California, apparently was nearest the epicenter of the cities and towns reporting the shock. The tremors, however, only rattled dishes and swung chandeliers.

Drouth Delays Gravel Work; Endangers Fish In State Parks, Lakes

The increasing seriousness of drouth conditions in Nebraska was disclosed from several sources here Thursday.

William Lytle, deputy state game warden, reported the drying up of overflow waters and shallow lakes has necessitated utilization of every available man by the game commission in fish salvage operations. Pheasants and other game birds are showing the ravages of insufficient moisture and feed, Lytle said.

Fish are being removed to larger lakes, work which was begun several weeks ago in southeastern Nebraska and in the sandhills area. Frank B. O'Connell, chief game warden, is now supervising salvage operations and conservation work at several points in the state.

A. C. Tilley, state highway maintenance engineer, said that dry conditions forced the rejection of several bids on four gravel maintenance jobs received May 25 for work in southwestern Nebraska. Roads are too dry to hold the gravel, Tilley said, and the work probably will not be done this year.

Three Manila, P. I. Families Meet In Lincoln Bus Depot

It isn't such a big world. Or so three families from Manila, P. I., who met at the Lincoln bus depot Thursday morning think. Mrs. Henry Bauman, and her son, Bill, were there to take the bus for Wilsonville, the former home of Mrs. Bauman.

Mrs. Bauman was escorted to the bus by Mr. and Mrs. David Innis, guests of Rev. and Mrs. C. F. Innis, with whom she had been visiting. And Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Davis arrived on the bus to spend some time with Mr. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis, 4843 Baldwin. The Davises and their three children have spent the past seven years in Manila. They will not return. Mrs. Bauman and her son, and the Innises will return soon, however.

First Important Stock Market Rally In Three Weeks Sends Prices Up 1 To Around 5 Points

Exchange Active; Close Is Strong

Upturn Partly Due to Hopes That Steel Strike Will Be Averted.

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—Stocks staged a rather buoyant rally today, the first of any importance in more than three weeks. In relatively active trading prices advanced 1 to around 5 points over a broad front. The upturn was attributed partly to hopes that the steel strike would be averted. The close was strong. Transfers approximated 1,450,000 shares.

While there was an undercurrent of inflationary psychology apparent, the gold mining shares did not reflect it. Most of them were a little behind the rest of the market. Commercial activities appeared to be holding up better than expected, although freight car loadings for the week ended June 2, were off 46,026, a little more than seasonal decline even with the Memorial day holiday considered.

The breaking of the drouth may have been a factor in the improvement of sentiment. Grains up more than a cent a timent. Grains up more than a cent a timent. Grains up more than a cent a bush.l at one time, subsided under profit taking and the majority finished only moderately higher. Cotoon steadied, after early hesitancy, and rubber and silver were about steady. Bonds moved forward. International dollar rates were slightly mixed.

Shares of Du Pont spurted 5 points and gains of around 3 to more than 4 were shown by American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Can, Chrysler, Case, Sears Roebuck, Macy, J. C. Penney, Santa Fe and Union Pacific. Others, up 1 to 2 or more included General Motors, Bethlehem Steel U. S. Steel, Douglas Aircraft, Deere, Montgomery Ward, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Celanese, Schenley, U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Kennecott, Anaconda, Consolidated Gas, American Tobacco B and Industrial Rayon.

Following reports that the heads of the large steel corporations would accept a labor board, similar to the one which is now in the automobile field leaders of the steel unions conferred with administration officials and prospects of some compromise in the outstanding controversy were believed to be brighter.

The markets were also cheered by the statement of Senator Joseph Robinson, senate majority leader, after a conference with President Roosevelt, that congress may adjourn next week.

Brokerage opinion of the equities market was still cautious but fairly optimistic. The argument for higher prices, advanced by a number of analysts, was that there will either be a substantial pick-up in business during the next few months, or the administration will apply some more "priming" in the form of another advance in the domestic gold rate or in greatly expanded spending programs.

On the other hand, the thought was advanced in some financial circles that many stocks are still too high, if considered on a price-times-earning basis. It was also pointed out that heavy government disbursements must be met by taxes and that this factor, added to higher wages shorter hours and greatly increased costs, may tende to reduce profit margins drastically.

Although the labor unsettlement was bothering most industrialists, it was thought in some quarters that these troubles, in themselves, were not especially bearish for stocks as a whole. Strikes it was recalled, resulted in a stored up demand that must eventually bring active operations and also reflect the reaction to actual business improvement.

Despite the drouth and serious labor controversies, the week-end trade review of Dun & Bradstreet reported that the "accent of the business symphony is crescendo rather than diminuendo."

"Retail distribution," it was said, "has taken a more decisive step forward, stimulated by the needs to combat excessively high temperatures and the growing vacation requirements, with sales for this week averaging 5 to 8 per cent higher than in the previous seven-day period and 10 to 15 per cent in excess of the comparative 1933 totals."

While there was a slight recession in factory activities, it was stated that employment was being well maintained and payrolls generally were at the highest level since 1931. The greatest unemployment was found in the durable goods industry, but improvement here was forecast because of anticipated new financing under the amended securities act.

Financial circles expressed satisfaction over the signing of the new bankruptcy act by the president. Under this measure thousands of corporations, now "frozen" by obstinate minorities are expected to obtain relief. The law will permit reorganizations through the consent of a majority of creditors and will obviate long-drawn-out and expensive receiverships and monopolies by professional receivers.

In opening foreign exchange dealings the British pound reacted 1 cent at $5.06, but the French franc recorded a gain of .00¼ of a cent at 6.60¾ cents.

Wheat Gain Halted By Profit Taking

Close Is Nervous, Unchanged to ½c Higher; Corn Same to ⅜c Up.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 8—(AP)—Stimulated by strength of securities and by evening-up in anticipation of a bullish government crop report, wheat prices advanced most of the time today.

It was intimated a big export business in wheat had been done at Winnipeg. Drouth was reported to have cut the Czechoslovakia wheat crop almost in half, and to have stopped all exports of agricultural products from Bulgaria. Late advices told also of urgent need of rain in Australia. French crop estimates were also reduced.

Heavy profit taking in wheat just at the last wiped out most of the gains. Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to ½ cent up compared with 24 hours previous. July 97¾@⅞ September 98⅛@⅜c. Corn unchanged to ⅜ cent higher, oats ⅜ to ¾ cent advanced, and provisions showing a rise of 10 to 15 cents.

Downturns of grain prices early today followed an irregular start. Further rains in spring wheat territory had a noticeable bearish influence. Opening at ⅛ cent off to ⅛ cent up, July 97⅛@97¾c, wheat afterwards underwent setbacks all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅜ cent lower, and subsequently showed a general drop.

Enlarged buying on the decline led to a sharp reversal of wheat market action and caused jumps of 1½ cents from early bottom figures. May traders contended that drouth, except in the northwest, had not been relieved, and that in the northwest the rains had come too late to change the crop outlook materially for wheat. Much talk was heard also that the government crop report due after the close of trading today would appear bullish in the light of recent unofficial estimates of wheat production.

Forecasts indicating that moisture in the grain belt tonight and tomorrow would be generally restricted to showers tending to give additional encouragement to friends of higher prices for wheat. Aggressive purchasing on the part of a group of Chicago speculators was a feature at this stage with trade attention focusing a good deal on continued dry weather in the central west and southwest. Notice was also taken of a sudden upturn in Liverpool wheat quotations and of export buying at Winnipeg. Corn and oats rallied with wheat and as a result of reports of increasing chinch bug infestation.

Provisions were responsive to hog market upturns.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 40,495,000 bushels, corn 12,209,000. Open interest in wheat was 100,359,000 bushels, and in corn 60,878,000.

About midsession, wheat was 1¼ to 1⅝ higher compared with yesterday's finish, and corn was ⅛ to ¾ up.

Corn receipts in Chicago today were 77 cars, a week ago 45, and a year ago 300.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—Bonds were steady in light trading today. Small gains were reported by a sizeable list of prime and secondary ratings, and U. S. governments added in a small way to their advance of the previous day.

Moderate activity at rising levels featured such low priced rails at Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, Milwaukee 5s, Alleghany Corp. 5s, Erie 1s, New York Central 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s and Southern Railway 4s.

Fractional improvement also occurred in Santa Fe 4s, Bethlehem Steel 5s, North American 5s and Shell Union Oil 5s. Consolidated Gas 4½s duplicated their high for the year. International Paper 6s yielded more than a point in a thin market.

Forenoon trading in the Treasury loans brought the largest volume up to the 3s of 1951-55, which edged up 2-32nds for a point. Turnover was small in the balance of the list.

The bulk of dealings in the foreign department was in German and Poland issues, and even here the interest was not particularly lively. The loans of these nations were down fractionally, as were those of Brazil, Italy and Belgium. Argentine 6s were a point higehr on one or two trades. Japanese issues were mixed.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—Substantial rallies in specialties and oil shares gave the curb market a fairly firm appearance oday.

Metal stocks, which had a moderate advance in the previous session, were neglected in early trading and the major portion of the active issues in this group were unchanged or showed small declines. Trading was in improved volume.

Aluminum Co. gained 1½ points South Penn Oil advanced 1. Great Atlantic & Pacific, Singer Mfg. and Gulf Oil improved around 3 each, and smaller advances occurred in such widely assorted issues as American Gas, Creole Petroleum, Swift & Co., Standard Oil of Indiana, Pioneer Gold, International Petroleum, Distillers Corp.-Seagrams, Hiram Walker, Lerner Stores and Electric Bond & Share.

Strength of the oil shares was believed by brokers to reflect the recent curtailment of refinery activities and the advance made in the retail price of gasoline by all of the large companies with the prospect that additional markups would be made in some territories where the retail price was considered out of line.

Lake Shore Mines and Newmont Mining, both of which were active and made good gains in the previous session, were unchanged after several transactions involving only a nominal turnover. Wright Hargreaves advanced a small fraction and Teck Hughes was slightly lower.

GRAIN NOTES.

CHICAGO, June 8—(AP)—Wheat market sentiment was depressed by reports of substantial rainfall in the northwest, but corn developed strength on the trade belief that the government would make liberal purchases of cash corn for its drouth relief program, and indications that chinch bug damage would be heavy in the Iowa, Illinois and Missouri corn belt. Crop comment indicated that rain was received too late to be of material benefit to oats but might improve the condition of spring wheat.

The wheat market was partly influenced by reports from the southwest that some of the winter wheat crop was ripening prematurely in the dry, hot weather. A fairly liberal movement of the new wheat crop was underway, with the arrival of 11 cars of this year's crop reported yesterday at Enid, Okla.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was quoted in an address delivered at Bismarck, N. D., as having said that "at a rough estimate" around 15,000,000 bushels of spring wheat, 40,000,000 bushels of oats and 10,000,000 bushels of barley were needed for seed in areas seriously affected by the drouth. He said the government planned to acquire and store the seed.

In support to the many reports of drouth damage was the report of a representative of a Chicago commission house on the condition of the Missouri wheat crop. The report stated the Missouri wheat "looks very good," and cutting will start next week.

SMALL FIRMS TO COME UNDER ONE BASIC NRA CODE

Applies to Hundreds Whose Pacts Have Not Been Completed.

CONSOLIDATION TO SIMPLIFY DUTIES

"Ready Made" Agreement Regulations Will Be Easily Enforced.

(Copyright 1934 by the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 8— (AP) —NRA will announce soon one big "ready made" code for several hundred miscellaneous industries whose pacts have not been completed.

This basic code will be almost as simple as the president's reemployment agreement with which the blue eagle started its flight a year ago. It aims to give the minor industries regulations which will be easily enforced, yet reach the NRA's chief objectives. These are:

Shortened hours to make more jobs; wages not below living levels; recognition of labor's right to organize and bargain; prohibition of commercial dishonesty and the obvious forms of unfair trade practice.

Can Subscribe Voluntarily.

The small, secondary industries will be given opportunity to subscribe voluntarily. If they want more elaborate trade practice regulation they will be required to present the signed assents of 85 per cent of their firms.

Determined to simplify NRA's work, officials have pushed toward completion a plan to consolidate scores of codes already approved. In the end there will be not more than 300 codes in place of 450 already approved in addition to nearly 500 in negotiation.

The "ready made" or "cleanup" code plan arose from the discovery that codifying the small industries has been absorbing a disproportionate amount of time and money, which should be devoted to major problems. The more codes, the greater the administrative load. For instance, there are nine separate pacts for button makers.

No More Public Hearings.

Under the "cleanup" code there will be no more public hearings, no more protracted negotiations.

The base code will permit price reporting through a central independent agency, along the lines laid down in NRA's price policy announcemet of yesterday. If a firm files a figure which appears entirely out of line with costs, it may be called upon to justify it. Otherwise there will be no restrictions.

The idea is to block cut-throat price reductions and yet leave competition free, with little chance for big companies to press little ones into a uniform price level.

The 40-hour week will continue as the standard. Though NRA would like to bring the figure down, it has not succeeded in swinging the larger industries into line.

Wages will be either at the $13 a week factory minimum of NRA's first code, covering textiles, or close to it. The southern $1 a week differential is expected to be continued.

POLICE LOCATE PRESIDENT'S SON

BROOKLINE, Mass., June — (AP) —It took the Brookline police to locate James Roosevelt, son of the president.

Apparently James left Brookline without notifying the White House that he was closing the Walnut street home of Dr. Harvey W. Cushing, his father-in-law, and taking his family to the seashore.

The president called James on the telephone last night and when the Brookline exchange reported to the White House that nobody answered the Brookline police were asked to ascertain why telephonic communication could not be established.

Two patrolmen were sent to the house and reported James had moved during the day to his summer home at Marion.

Classic At Belmont On Saturday Slate

NEW YORK, June 7—(AP)—The $50,000 Belmont Stakes, the American turf's richest and oldest race for three-year-olds, will be run for the sixty-sixth time at Belmont Park tomorrow, with the probability that Mrs. Dodge Sloane will have to depend upon one of her second string to carry on for Cavalcade and High Quest.

High Quest, Preakness winner, is eligible for the mile and one-half stake, but is considered a doubtful starter due to a slight injury, a cut above the hoof, suffered when he tossed Mack Garner at the start of the Withers Mile two weeks ago. Cavalcade, winner of the Kentucky and American Derbies, is not eligible.

Although High Quest's injury is not considered serious, Trainer Bob Smith declares he will not start the son of Sir Gallahad III unless the colt is in perfect condition. If High Quest does not run, the task of carrying on will fall to Good Goods, a lightly campaigned colt which is well regarded.
